WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The United States was understood to have asked Japan today for an early answer to last week's statement of basic American principles and to have renewed its inquiries regarding the movement of Japanese troops in French Indo-China.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A warning that war "will not settle the issue at stake in the Pacific" was issued today by Japanese Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura as the American-Japanese discussions were resumed at the state department.

"I cannot believe that anybody wants war," the Japanese envoy said. "If we cannot settle the issues at stake by diplomacy, we should not try to settle them by war. War will not settle them."

Nomura and Saburo Kurusu, the latter a special Japanese envoy to this country, were called to the state department by Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles.

It was the first time since the discussions started that Welles has handled them directly. Secretary of State Hull was said to be resting at his residence.

Considerable significance was attached to the fact that Welles had taken over the discussions. The belief prevailed in informed quarters that it meant an even sterner attitude on the part of the United States.

Welles is known to speak more bluntly than Hull in his conversations with foreign diplomats and he is also understood to favor a very strong attitude toward Japan in the present Pacific crisis.

The Japanese envoys said they have not received their government's reply to the American terms for an understanding.

"Our government is giving very careful consideration to the American communication," Kurusu said.

Both envoys asserted that an "unfortunate mistake" was re-

Crack British Cruiser Sunk; Churchill Calls For More Manpower

Sydney, Hero of Many Battles, Destroyed By Nazi Raider.

BULLETIN

CANBERRA, Australia—(U.P.)—An Australian escort sloop, the Parramatta, was reported today to have been torpedoed and sunk. An announcement said 141 officers and men were missing.

(By United Press)

LONDON — The Australian cruiser Sydney, scourge of the Italian navy and hero of a score of engagements, has succumbed, it was believed today, to wounds suffered in sinking the German raider Steiermarck, destroyer of 10 Allied ships.

The Sydney, after a search of months, encountered the larger and more heavily armed Steiermarck somewhere in the South Pacific, it was reported, and in a blazing duel to the death sometime before Nov. 26 sank the German craft.

Then, fatally damaged, the Sydney, with its complement of 645 officers and men sank without trace, it was believed. The Australian government withheld news of the presumed loss until extensive sea and air searches had failed.

The Steiermack, according to Austrlian communique, was built at Hamburg in 1938 with a view to converting it into a raider. It went to sea toward the end of 1940.

It preyed on Allied shipping in the North and South Atlantic, in the Indian ocean and in the South Pacific. It is known to have sunk 10 British and Greek merchantmen.

Prime Minister Asks Age Limit Boost to 18-50 Range.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — Prime Minister Churchill told Parliament today that "a crisis of manpower and womanpower" will dominate the year 1942 for Britain, proposed that military conscription age limits be lowered to 18½ and raised to 50 and warned that eventually men of 60 might be called.

Powers to compel unmarried women between the ages of 20 and 30 to join the uniformed forces also will be sought, he said, although only volunteer women will be assigned to "lethal or combatant services."

The present conscription limit for men is 19 to 41.

Declaring to a solemn and crowded house of commons that Britain's "crisis of equipment is largely over and ever-broadening flow is now assured," partly because of United States aid and partly because of newly completed British empire factories, he said the drain on Britain's manpower was arising from five causes:

1. The necessity of staffing the new factories.
2. The maintenance and expansion of forces in the east.
3. The supplying of Russia from British production.
4. The prospective expansion of the air force, and the continuous growth of the navy, and
5. The continuous guard against "two vultures"—the danger of invasion and the air raider—which "will hang over us until the end of the war."

The expanded military conscrip-

CHILD KILLED AS COAL TRUCK STRIKES HER

Three-Year-Old Daughter of Mansfielders Dies as Wheel Passes Over Her.

COUNTY'S 26TH VICTIM

Baby Third Traffic Fatality In 2 Days; Charges Filed In Sunday Crash.

Richland county's traffic toll climbed to 26 yesterday with the death of a three-year-old Mansfield girl who was crushed under the wheels of a coal truck only a few steps from her home.

Emma Jean Hoke, colored, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hoke, 529 Lily street, died shortly after 1:30 p. m., from injuries received when the right rear wheel of a truck she had run against passed over her. Her death was the fourth traffic death in Mansfield since the beginning of the year and brought the county's total to six more than in all of 1940. The traffic toll on this date a year ago stood at 16.

The girl was struck by a truck driven by William Sampsel, 498 Woodland avenue, who is employed by the East Side Coal company. Sampsel told police he was unaware of the accident until he had proceeded about 60 feet down the street.

Police said that a witness to the accident stated that the truck was only going about 15 miles an hour and did not strike the girl directly. The witness said that the child ran into the side of the truck and was knocked to the pavement. She fell beneath the right wheel which crushed her head.

William Sampsel and his brother, Dewey Sampsel, who was riding with him said that they did not know the accident had occurred. While driving north on the east side of Lily street, they heard nothing more than a light bump.

RAIL DISPUTE COMES TO END

Terms of Peace Agreement Withheld Until Okayed By Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON—The threat of a strike was lifted today from the nation's railroads, simplifying the problems of traffic chiefs who must accommodate the heaviest holiday business in two decades on lines already jammed with defense freight.

Settlement of the dispute over wages and vacations was announced last night by Wayne L. Morse, chairman of an emergency board appointed by President Roosevelt.

Morse withheld exact terms of the peace agreement until it could be submitted to Mr. Roosevelt today, but other sources declared the pact would add from $300,000,000 to $325,000,000 a year to the carriers' payrolls.

The walkout had been set for next Sunday.

The settlement capped two days and nights of almost continuous negotiations between the railroad

ENTERS ARENA

America First Committee Hops on Political Bandwagon.

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—The America First committee entered the political arena today by announcing it would endorse and oppose congressional candidates in 1942 on a non-partisan basis.

In a statement explaining its policy, the committee asserted the nation was threatened with loss of "government by consent of the governed" and that Fascism results "when the legislative branch of the government surrenders to one man."

The committee said it had not sought to influence the election of public officials in the past but believed "that in due time and in proper compliance with the law this policy must be changed."

Drive Against Moscow Stalls Too, Say Reds

Cairo Admits Germans Have Broken Out Of Trap, Taken Vital British Base In Desert; Tobruk Again Cut Off; Reinforcements Arrive.

(By Associated Press)

Soviet dispatches declared today that the retreat of Adolf Hitler's Ukraine armies from Rostov-on-Don had become a rout, with the Nazis fleeing westward along the shores of the Azov sea after a defeat which "puts an end to tales about the invincibility of the German army."

A British broadcast quoted Soviet Vice Commissar S. A. Lozovsky as saying that "the latest attempt of the Germans to take Moscow has cost them half a million men."

On the Libyan desert front, the British acknowledged a damaging setback for Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham's drive to knock the Axis out of North Africa.

Dispatches from Cairo said the Germans had slashed through the British corridor from Rezegh to Tobruk, joining trapped panzer forces northeast of Rezegh, and recaptured Rezegh itself and Bir El Hamed.

A British spokesman said the Nazi break-through meant that the newly-united German panzer divisions now hemmed in along the coast east of Tobruk could probably break the British encirclement and escape to the west "if they wish to do so."

The spokesman declared, however, that while the Nazi success "may delay matters for a few days longer," it had not impaired British confidence.

Advices reaching London said the German southern forces, commanded by Gen. Ewald von Kleist, were heading back to Mariupol, 100 miles west of Rostov, to make a new stand around that city, which they captured on Oct. 7.

The German high command said bitter fighting was continuing but gave no details.

On the central front, a bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters asserted that German troops pressing the two-months-old offensive against Moscow had penetrated deep into the capital's defense system—how far was not stated—while a Soviet spokesman countered with a statement that "the Germans can register so far only tremendous losses in all directions, without exception."

Authoritative London quarters likewise reflected optimism over the battle for Moscow, de-

NEW SERIES OF TALKS STARTED

Petain and Goering Meet For First of New 'Detailed Conversations.'

(By Associated Press)

VICHY, Unoccupied France—Important new developments in French-German relations were forecast by authorized sources today following Marshal Petain's return from a long conference with Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering in the occupied zone yesterday.

The meeting, held in a railway car near Saint Florentin, 80 miles southeast of Paris, signalled the beginning of new "detailed conversations," these sources said, emphasizing it should not be regarded as being merely a conclusion to long-pending negotiations.

Jacques Benoist-Mechin, Vichy secretary of state, declared in Paris that the interview represented the "marked will of the French government to engage itself ever more constantly on a path of durable and fruitful European co-operation."

Fernand de Brinon, French ambassador there, said "it is certain that something very important will result from the conference."

(In Berlin, the authoritative commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland, which often reflects the opinions of the German foreign office, said "the principle of cooperation in the spirit of the new order has been unmistakably intensified.")

Official circles here suggested the possibility that the situation in North Africa was one of the topics touched upon by Petain and Goering and stressed the military character of the two conferees in this connection.

GRALL GETS PAROLE

LONDON — (AP) — William F. Grall, 59-year-old former Lorain county sheriff convicted of accepting bribes from slot machine operators, is free on parole from the London prison farm. He served nearly three years of a 1-to-10 year sentence, entering the penitentiary Dec. 16, 1938.

Peer To Be Released From Penitentiary Tomorrow.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — The state pardon and parole commission today granted a parole to William Peer, elderly former Lorain real estate operator and last to be released of six men sent to Ohio penitentiary for bribery in the Lorain county slot machine scandal.

Peer, 61, is expected to be released tomorrow. The official order for his release said tomorrow "or thereafter when arranged by the parole division."

Arrangements for his parole originally were completed two months ago, effective Oct. 11, but the commission revoked the parole when it discovered State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood had released Peer prematurely from London prison farm.

'BLACKOUT'

Ohio Residents In Dark When Fire Breaks Power Line.

CIRCLEVILLE—(U.P.)—Residents of Circleville, Chillicothe, Jackson and Hillsboro experienced unexpected "blackouts" last night when a flaming storage tank of the Circleville Oil company broke an electric power line serving those communities.

Arthur Steele, truck driver, was loading his truck at the 35,000-gallon gasoline tank when he discovered the fire. A frame garage, a shanty office, three trucks and two automobiles on the property of the company were destroyed. Loss was estimated at $15,000.

Symphony Draws Biggest Ovation of Music Series

1,200 Applaud—and Laugh—As Kindler's Orchestra Comes Back Using First Musical Triumph As Bait.

By KEN WOODMAN

From now on Hans Kindler, conductor of the National Symphony orchestra, can be known to Mansfield audiences as the man who used a musical triumph as bait!

Two seasons ago he appeared at Senior high school auditorium under auspices of the Civic Music association and, with his playing of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony and Wagner's overture to the third act of Lohengrin, created a popular demand for the return of his organization.

Last night they returned, Kindler and his orchestra. Twelve hundred persons heard them and all 1,200 applauded—and even laughed—until they made Senior high auditorium ring with proof that this was the biggest ovation ever accorded musical artists visiting here.

Yes, the audience laughed during a symphony concert.

Dr. Kindler told them to, if they felt like it. He extended the invitation during a brief talk from the podium prefacing the playing of excerpts from Shostakovich's vigorously modern "Lady Macbeth of Mtsensk."

"The man in New York who supervises these tours didn't want me 'to cut my throat' by including this raucous number on the program," he said in effect; "but I thought you people had enough intellectual curiosity to want to hear it."

And Mansfield's audience re-

Board Handling Coal Dispute Calls Another Session.

NEW YORK — (INS) — President Roosevelt's special three-man arbitration board, which is seeking to settle the union shop dispute in the "captive" coal mines, today scheduled another session.

The board, consisting of chief labor conciliator Dr. John R. Steelman, United Mine Workers' President John L. Lewis, and U. S. Steel corporation President Benjamin Fairless, met for another five hours yesterday.

Since the board began its sessions last week, no announcement has been made on the progress of the talks. The board was appointed to settle the dispute that led to the recent strike of 53,000 workers in the steel company-owned mines.

Files $146 Claim After Accident at North Main Bridge

A Columbus motorist who crashed into the barricade at the temporary bridge over Touby's run on North Main street on Nov. 24 today entered a claim of $146.52 against the city of Mansfield.

George D. Carpenter, driver of the car which teetered on the edge of the bridge before being pulled to safety, notified city council through his attorney, George W. Biddle, that he was asking payment of damages received in the crash.

Carpenter charges that "neither approaches nor the bridge proper were marked by lanterns or in any other was discernible."

Carpenter crashed into the bridge on the day the Richland county commissioners were to begin the construction of a much-discussed $6,000 wooden structure across the stream.

Although the county must build the bridge, the city is responsible for maintaining and lighting it.

Chances Remote For U. S. Aid To Develop City's Airport

The chance that Mansfield will receive federal aid in financing improvement of its undeveloped municipal airport appeared dim today.

Alan Tappan, aviation enthusiast and one of the original backers of the establishment of an airport here, reported to James R. Harrington, airport manager, yesterday that direct aid from the government was "a very remote possibility."

Tappan, who last week visited Washington, D. C., to confer with War department and other governmental officials concerning the possibility of aiding the local aviation program, wrote Harrington on the outcome of the visits.

He explained that the War department could aid in the establishment and improvement of airports on only three classifications. These include national defense, flight training and permanent Army Air Corps bases.

War department officials told Tappan that national defense airport recommendations are restricted to New England, Florida, northwestern and southern California, thereby closing that route for aid to Mansfield.

Although flight training is carried on in Mansfield, the Army officials told Tappan that the government was establishing no large or improved training bases north of the Mason-Dixon line because of the weather problem. They explained that too many flying hours are lost in the northern part of the country because of unfavorable flying conditions.

5 DIE IN BLAST

Several Injured In Oklahoma Oil Plant Explosion.

OKMULGEE, Okla.—(INS)—Five men were dead and several others remained in critical condition today following an explosion and fire at the Phillips Petroleum corporation plant on the outskirts of Okmulgee.

Officials of the company said explosion of a pressure tank set off the holocaust when flames from the heating fire below the tank ignited leaking fumes. Two nearby tanks also were blown up, shooting flames hundreds of feet in the air.

One employe, James Hawk, was killed instantly in the explosion, and the other victims died of burns. They were Nippolyte Decobert, jr., Clarence Steigner, Lewis Pope, and John Rogers.

New York Trio To Die In Electric Chair Next Month

NEW YORK — (AP) — Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, one-time kingpin industrial racketeer, and two co-defendants, Emanuel (Wendy) Weiss and Louis Capone, today were sentenced to die in the electric chair the week of Jan. 4, 1942, for the slaying of Joseph Rosen, a Brooklyn storekeeper.

Only Weiss, said by the state to be the "trigger man" in the Rosen killing, had any comment as Kings County Judge Franklin Taylor sentenced the trio.

"All I can say is I'm innocent," he said. "That's all I can say."

The three were convicted of slaying Rosen by a jury early Sunday morning.

Sets Up 'No Left-Turn' Hours For Main Street Crossings

The new "no left-turn" order for Main street intersections at Third and Fourth streets will only be enforced during the rush business hours, Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals announced today.

Boals said that motorists would be prohibited from making left turns at the two corners between 2 and 6 p. m. on Mondays through Thursday and between 10 a. m. and 6 p. m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

No left-turn signs will be placed in the middle of the intersections to warn motorists of the order during the hours the restriction is not in effect, according to Boals. The signs will not be left there permanently.

Boals explained that the prohibition of left turns is being tried only as an experiment to help relieve the many traffic jams which occur during busy hours. He maintains that a decided minority making left turns, have been holding up the greater part of the traffic.

City buses will be allowed to make the left turn while the experiment is being tried, Boals said, but if the rule is adopted permanently, no vehicles will be allowed to make left turns.

Boals reported that traffic control on Saturday was handled much easier than in previous years. The no left-turn order was introduced Saturday morning.

Jap Cabinet Goes Over U.S. Stand Again

TOKYO—(AP)—The cabinet devoted a long session today to study of the Washington negotiations while the press splashed dispatches describing the gathering of "ABCD" forces in the South seas and charging that Britain was preparing to invade Thailand.

Dispatches to Domei and leading newspapers described "British war preparations along the Malaya-Thailand border" as being completed. From Manila, Domei reported that a declaration of a state of emergency in the Philippines was imminent.

British Bolster Far East Sea Power

(By Associated Press)

Britain's new 35,000-ton battleship Prince of Wales steamed in the great Singapore naval base today at the head of a flotilla of powerful naval reinforcements as Japanese dispatches asserted that British imperial troops were massing along the Thailand frontier for an invasion.

The Prince of Wales and other unspecified "heavy units" are the first capital ships Britain ever has sent to the Far East ready for action. Others have made only ceremonial visits.

Simultaneously, a Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Rangoon said one of the largest columns of military vehicles ever seen in Burma left the capital for duty with British troops at defense centers throughout the country.

British fears of a Japanese thrust into Burma or Thailand have been repeatedly emphasized in recent weeks, but Domei, the Japanese news agency, declared bluntly:

"Indications are that Britain herself is now seeking to invade Thailand."

Thailand herself rushed large-scale preparations for defense in event of an attack, posting armed guards in Bangkok and the capital's suburbs and constructing concrete air-raid shelters at many street junctions.

Hints at Further Burma Road Bombing

SHANGHAI —(U.P.)— Japan will continue to bomb the Burma road. China's lifeline supply route, whenever weather conditions permit, Col. Kunio Akiyama, Japanese military spokesman in Shanghai, said today.

At the same time it was learned that the Japanese were commandeering all Japanese private shipping in China coastal and interior waters for the movement of military supplies and troops.

Akiyama said the air raids on the Burma road last week were in accordance with deliberate, long standing policy and were not made because of any change in the Pacific situation or in Japanese-American negotiations at Washington.

Says We Send China 'Second Rate' Planes

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Sen. Wheeler (D) Mont., charged today that America is shipping second-rate fighting planes to China, as senatorial observers voiced new concern over American-Japanese relations.

"The best plane we have is the P40E," Wheeler said. "These are being shipped to England and Russia. The old P40B, our second rate plane which can be shot down like a clay-pigeon, and is badly made, is being sent to China for use of American boys volunteering to serve in the Chinese army as pilots and in the Philippines."

While Wheeler declared that there is no cause for war between the United States and Japan, Sen. Norris (D) Neb., said he fears that Nippon will attack this country without warning.

Wheeler said that he heard long ago from direct sources that Japan offered China peace terms and the Chinese turned them down, feeling they could whip Japan if they got sufficient aid in tanks, planes and war materials, and that the United States had failed to furnish the aid.

according to their statement made to police.

Chester Lindsay, 338 Lida street, who was sitting in a parked car nearby told police that a group of children had been playing near his auto.

Lindsay said that the Hoke child suddenly ran into the street from behind his parked car and against the side of the passing truck. He and George Bibbs, a neighbor, rushed the child to General hospital but she died soon afterward.

Meanwhile, Maynard G. Sams, 22, of 90 East First street, filed charges of unsafe operation against Robert Ray Emperio, 18, Ashland, driver of the auto in which two Ashland youths were killed late Sunday.

Autos driven by Emperio and Sams crashed in the fog on U. S. Route 42, three miles northeast of Mansfield. John B. Ziegler, 17, and Lester Hesson, 19, were fatally injured. Emperio told state highway patrolmen that his car skidded and turned cross-wise as he attempted to slow down back of a truck. He skidded into the path of Sams' car, according to patrolmen.

Prosecutor Harold Lutz said that he was continuing his investigation of the crash but that he had filed the affidavit for Sams because City Solicitor M. D. Ward, jr., was not in the city. Lutz said that he interviewed Sams and intended to question Emperio and Miss Bettry Clark, 18, of Ashland, who accompanied Sams.

The Hoke girl was born on April 7, 1938. She is survived by her parents, two sisters, Ethel and Edwina; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Burke and Mrs. Felix Hoke, all of Mansfield; and her greatgrandparents.

The body was taken to the Geiger funeral home and later removed to the family home. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at the Shiloh Baptist church with Rev. A. J. Payne officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

STOLEN AUTO IN CRASH, 1 KILLED

Two Others Injured as Speeding Machine Rams Utility Pole.

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— A speeding automobile which police reported as stolen rammed into a utility pole on a city street early today, killing one occupant and injuring two others seriously.

Dead was Frank Edward Campbell, 19. Injured were Samuel Edwards, 20, and Augustus Crawford, 22.

The collision catapaulted Campbell through the roof of the car. Police said the car was reported stolen at 5 a. m., and the wreck happened 30 minutes later.

warded Dr. Kindler by showing a sound appreciation in addition to curiosity.

They chilled to the kettle drum passages of "Burying the Corpse In the Cellar." They shivered to the eerie flute duet in "The Ghost Disappears." And they chuckled aloud at the maudlin trombone phrase of "The Drunks At the Wedding."

The Shostakovich number came in sharp contrast, too, to the preceding "Prelude and Fugue in D. Miner" of Handel. Here at last was the stately, sonorous music of the German-English composer in an arrangement that certainly did it justice.

It was Dr. Kindler's own arrangement.

After the concert he explained, "Certain great composers like Rameau of the French school wrote music that exactly fitted the instruments of their day, but in Handel's magnificent themes I could always feel the call for a great organ or a full orchestra. So I made this arrangement. Handel was a big man. He could eat three dinners at a sitting—and ofter did. His music has that same lustiness which overshadows the comparatively puny orchestration he had at his disposal in the early 18th century."

Dr. Kindler certainly should be thanked not only for his rich interpretation of the deep-toned prelude and crystalline polyphonic fugue but also for making us familiar with something more of Handel's than the thread-bare "Largo" from Xerxes and oft-repeated "Messiah."

Last night's audience liked the National Symphony's reading of the tuneful Overture to "Die Meistersinger," Wagner, and the two melodic encores to the first group.

The encores were Tschaikovsky's "Waltz of the Flowers" from the "Nutcracker Suite," played by request, and Dubussy's tone picture "Clair de Lune."

High spot of the evening, however, was certainly the masterful playing of Brahms' first symphony in C minor. Elsewhere in the program Dr. Kindler may have touched the wit and sentiment of his auditors, here he touched the essence of music itself.

Brahms wrote with a kind of determined genius and that's the way Dr. Kindler conducted the sustained introduction, the rushing of woodwinds and strings in the allegro, the lyrical andante sostenuto with its plaintive oboe melody, the graceful allegretto, and the adagio leading to the spirited allegro which closes the symphony.

The solo violin passage of the symphony as played last night by Concertmaster Millard Taylor was of real excellence. And the conductor and audience gave Taylor appreciative recognition of his notable playing.

Since Dr. Kindler was once himself a noted solo cellist, it was only natural to expect that that section of the orchestra would perform notably. But every other section matched it—violins, violas, woodwinds, brasses, and percussion. The harp passages were especially neatly done.

All in all, last night's was probably Mansfield's most satisfying Civic Music concert.

As he left the auditorium, Dr. Kindler said with sincere and grateful dignity: "I hope I can play for you again."

We hope so, too.

FACES CHARGE

Parents and Son Convicted on Draft Evasion Count.

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(U.P.)—Willie Lawrence Hicks and his parents were convicted on charges of conspiracy to evade the draft here yesterday by a federal jury which decided Willie was born May 24, 1918.

"When was Willie Hicks born?" was the only question at issue, Judge Ben Moore said in his instructions. Hicks and his parents, of Charleston, claimed the youth was born in Cedar Grove in 1920, instead of the earlier date.

The jury deliberated several hours before deciding he was born in 1918, and therefore was eligible for the draft. Judge Moore will impose sentence tomorrow.

claring that the Germans had not made any progress during the past 24 hours.

Dispatches to the Soviet newspaper Pravda said Red army troops had repulsed attacks by three German divisions, about 45,000 soldiers, in the Klin and Volokolamsk sectors, respectively 50 and 65 miles northwest of Moscow.

Rome reports said heavy fighting had broken out in the Italian sector in the Donets river basin, near Voroshilovgrad, 100 miles north of Rostov, with "considerable" losses inflicted on the Russians.

On the flaming North African battle front, British headquarters admitted that the Germans, throwing all their available armored forces into a desperate lunge, had succeeded in consolidating their divided armies in the Libyan desert wastes.

A British communique said German troops advancing from the south and southwest in bitter all-day fighting managed to reach other Nazi forces trapped south of Rezegh, 90 miles from the Libyan-Egyptian frontier.

Premier Mussolini's high command reported the capture of 1,500 British prisoners in the Rezegh zone, while the German high command claimed that more than 9,000 British, including three generals, had been taken captive so far in the 15-day-old campaign. The Nazi high command also reported the destruction of 814 British tanks and 127 planes.

Official Nazi dispatches said the battle on the Tobruk front had taken a favorable turn for the Axis in the last few days.

A Nazi military spokesman said developments indicated a "definite turn of events in a few days," indicating that a decisive phase in the conflict was imminent.

Powerful sea-borne British reinforcements were reported pouring into Tobruk whose narrow corridor eastward to Rezegh may have been cut by the German success.

In the waters outside Tobruk harbor, the Italian high command reported the sinking of a 5,000-ton British cruiser of the Aurora class under three aerial torpedo hits.

WINS AWARD

Dayton Girl Granted Back Wages In Suit Against Employer.

DAYTON —(U.P.)— Judge Clarence Stewart ruled yesterday that bonuses received by persons working under the state minimum wage law apply as salary only for the week in which they are received.

Under this interpretation, he granted Dorothy Burch Houston $188.44 in back wages in her suit against the Interstate Lunches, Inc. The defendant restaurant had claimed that the bonus paid in excess of the salary minimum could be applied to previous weeks when the employe's salary was below the legal minimum.

Moving Orchestra Of 83 Musicians A Big Task

The above photos show a busy scene yesterday as 83 musicians of the National Symphony orchestra from Washington, D. C., arrived in the afternoon, for a concert at Senior high school last night. They departed for Niagara Falls, N. Y., this morning. In the top photo Joe P. Mack, stage technician for the organization, is shown showing truckers how to unload a harp from the troupe's special baggage car without breaking it. In the bottom picture Dr. Hans Kindler, left, director of the orchestra, and J. P. Hayes, manager, are shown as they took a taxi from the Erie railroad station to the hotel.

SYMPHONY OFF FOR NIAGARA

83 Musicians Depart For 3rd Engagement of Season After Mansfield Concert.

Their Mansfield appearance over, the company of 83 making up the National Symphony orchestra, boarded special coaches on an Erie railroad train today and departed for Niagara Falls, N. Y. where they give a concert tonight.

The station scene on their departure was much like that yesterday on the orchestra's arrival. Buses which brought the 83 men to the Mansfield-Leland hotel where they stayed over night in 50 rooms, took them back to the station this morning.

Where yesterday the baggage men hustled to unload 83 instrument cases from a special baggage coach, there was more hurry today as the big cases containing violins, cellos, harps, drums and what not, were loaded back into the coach.

All the loading and unloading operations were directed by Joe P. Mack, stage technician, whose job is to see that the musical instruments valued at thousands of dollars arrive undamaged at the next concert. Mack has the key to the baggage car from the time it is closed until another city is reached.

Founded during the depths of the depression by Dr. Hans Kindler, its conductor, the orchestra this year will play more than 30 concerts in Washington, its home city, and approximately 40 others in more than a score of cities in a dozen states.

The orchestra came to Mansfield from Huntington, W. Va., first on the concert tour. It departed from Mansfield for its third concert in Niagara Falls at 8 a. m. today.

WIN PRIZES

Richland Stock Farms Get Honors at Chicago Show.

Two Richland county livestock farms had taken prizes today with their Shorthorn cattle entries in the International Livestock Exposition at Chicago.

The Maxwalton farms near Mansfield won a second place ribbon with a Shorthorn senior yearling bull. The Maxwalton farms have been frequent winners in recent years with their entries at state fairs and livestock shows.

Also taking a second place award with a Polled Shorthorn senior bull calf entry was P. G. Ross, widely known livestock farmer in northcentral Ohio. He operates a farm southeast of Mansfield.

REHEARSE

CRESTLINE — Rehearsals are being held by members of the Crestline Woman's Choral club for their annual presentation of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," which will be presented on Sunday evening, Dec. 14.

Mrs. R. B. Smith is director and accompanists will be Mrs. C. L. Speelman and Mrs. Gregg Pennington.

CARS DAMAGED IN CRASH

GALION—Two cars were badly damaged, but no one was injured in a collision around 10:30 Monday morning on the South State road in front of the R. B. Wiseman residence. A car driven by John U. Ullmer of Route 1, Agosta struck the rear of another car driven by Mrs. John A. Herbst of Galion who was making a right turn into her driveway. The Ullmer car went out of control and struck a pole in the Wiseman front yard.

YOUNG FIRST OF 3 NEWSMEN TO GIVE LECTURES ON WAR HERE

Mansfielders next week are going to get a comprehensive picture of the foreign situation when three outstanding news correspondents bring their observations and conclusions to city audiences on Monday and Thursday nights.

James R. Young, former International News Service correspondent in Japan and resident of Tokyo for 13 years, leads off the week when he comes to John Simpson auditorium Monday at 8 p. m. under sponsorship of the University club.

Thursday night, Richard C. Hottelet, United Press writer and authority on Germany, will appear on the same platform with Robert G. Nixon, INS correspondent who escaped from Dunkirk with British forces, at the city's twelfth annual Community Christmas show sponsored by The News-Journal, Junior Association of Commerce, and Mansfield Community Fund.

While Hottelet and Nixon will help clarify the European situation in the Orient and their relation to the peace talks now going on in Washington between the U. S. officials and Nipponese envoys.

In view of these talks, Young's appearance here is considered especially timely. He is the husband of a former Mansfielder, Marjorie Willis, and is familiar with the workings of both top-flight Japanese conservatives and the radicals who, he reports, rounded up 688,000 business men in 1940, jailed 596,449 merchants and manufacturers during the first half of 1941, and clapped Young himself into prison for 61 days for his coverage of the war in China.

Young is credited with introducing coffee, fashion shows, and colored comics in Japan. There will be no admission charge to his lecture.

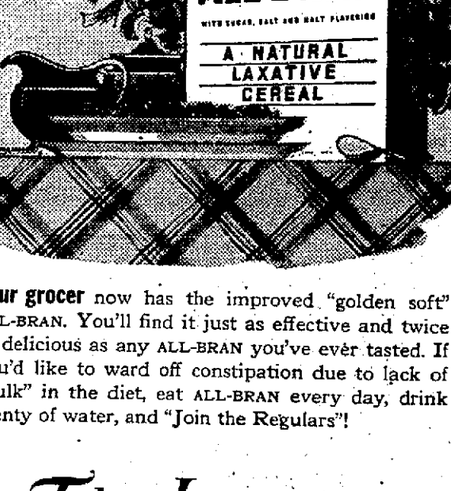
It's an Old American Custom

Remember the first movies? They flickered and jumped all over the screen. But we thought they were wonderful! No one could imagine, then, the technicolor talkies of 1941.

We dare say folks were thrilled when Dobbin first drew a horse-car. But transportation didn't stop improving. Think of the sleek buses today.



Making a good thing better is an old American custom! And it's an old custom of KELLOGG'S, world-famous makers of cereals. Over the last 25 years untold Americans have praised the goodness of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. But now a marvelous bran from one of the world's softest wheats gives ALL-BRAN new lightness, new crispness, new flavor!

Your grocer now has the improved "golden soft" ALL-BRAN. You'll find it just as effective and twice as delicious as any ALL-BRAN you've ever tasted. If you'd like to ward off constipation due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, eat ALL-BRAN every day, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars"!

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1941.

One commentator thinks Hitler is "only a passing phase"—but he's taking entirely too long in passing.

While the all-American football selections are being made it should be kept in mind that an all-American unity for defense is even more important.

By knocking out California's anti-Okie law the supreme court seems to have decided that indigents are entitled to be supported in the pleasantest surroundings they can find.

Richland County's Traffic Toll

WITH another month to go—one of the most dangerous in the year—Richland county's traffic death toll now stands at 25, or five more than last year's total.

While there has been improvement in traffic conditions inside of Mansfield's city limits, due to a more consistent enforcement policy and more adequate policing, excessive speed on highways outside of the city and reckless disregard of danger at intersections have contributed materially to this year's heavy toll of deaths and injuries.

State highway patrolmen have been doing an excellent job but it is obviously impossible for the limited number of patrolmen in this area to keep tab on all sections of all roads in the county. There has thus far been a disinclination on the part of other motorists to report, or file complaint against a driver that they observe violating traffic regulations, unless an accident results.

It is interesting—and rather appalling—to note that if the ratio of increase in traffic deaths in Richland county this year should apply generally over the country the national total for the year would be considerably in excess of 50,000.

Fortunately, however some other cities, counties and states have found effective ways to reduce their traffic accidents—an accomplishment worth working toward in Richland county and elsewhere in Ohio.

Busy FBI Makes Good Record

VALUE of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in crime detection and law enforcement, is evident to anyone who takes time to study the record of this well-trained and efficient organization.

The department of justice has just announced that, despite the increasing burden of national defense work, convictions have been secured in more than 98 per cent of the cases investigated by the FBI and brought to trial between July 1 and October 1 this year.

During this three-month period, Director J. Edgar Hoover disclosed, a total of 1,428 convictions were secured, as compared with 913 cases during the same period of 1940. Sentences imposed in these cases totaled 2,715 years, 1 month and 14 days; while fines, savings and recoveries amounted to more than $5,400,000. At the same time, the FBI located 875 fugitives from justice and recovered 1,691 stolen motor vehicles.

Mr. Hoover pointed out that in times of emergency there is a tendency for crime rates to increase. This can only be offset by increased effectiveness of law enforcement.

"While the FBI has over 75,000 national defense cases now under investigation," Mr. Hoover said, "it is, with the full co-operation of peace officers throughout the nation, doing everything within its power to leave no loopholes through which gangster and other criminal elements may again gain prominence."

ENDORSEMENT by the Richland County Ministerial association of the motion picture, "One Foot In Heaven," now being locally shown, is not only a tribute to the excellence of this picture but suggests a way in which encouragement can be given to production of more pictures that reach high in entertainment value without touching on subjects which make censorship necessary.

While it cannot be assumed that all motion pictures entitled to public patronage are of sufficiently high standards to justify ministerial or church endorsement, it is gratifying to note that "One Foot In Heaven" has not only gained this recognition but that the newspaper reviews have been uniformly favorable and patronage so large as to justify Warner Brothers, and other producers seeking motion picture material, to delve further into the field of literature that is free from stench.

Trees for Barren Coal Areas

MAKING the desert bloom like the rose seems an easy task compared with making anything lovely of the barren areas left behind by open-cut stripping of coal. That is being done, however, in eastern Ohio.

Several coal companies have organized the Ohio reclamation committee which works in close cooperation with the United States soil conservation service, the Ohio division of forestry and various sportsmen and farmer clubs.

The areas to be improved are studied carefully. Then the trees needed are ordered from the forestry division at the prices paid by rural land owners, from $4 to $8 a thousand, depending on age or size. The cost is borne by the group sponsoring the project.

This work was begun barely a year ago but has advanced at an increasing rate. Soon, it is believed, more acreage will be reclaimed yearly than is stripped, until no barren lands are left after coal stripping. In the first six months of this year 200,000 trees were set out, 80 per cent of which have survived.

Smoking Economy In Europe

AMERICAN smokers must sympathize with the Swedes. Unable to obtain supplies as usual from this country, Sweden is driven to the economy of putting paper mouthpieces on all cigarets, leaving the latter the same length as usual but eliminating one-third of the tobacco content. This device, they say, will save 1,800,000 pounds of tobacco a year.

The situation is much worse in most parts of Europe and cigaret stubs in France are said to be almost worth their weight in gold.

With all the other claims being made for specific brands of cigarets, it appears that a vitamin content should be discovered quite soon.

It is estimated that 17,500,000 women in the United States use gas ranges for cooking—with constant demand for the newer models.

WHAT WOULD THEY DO IF THEY MET HITLER?

Silence on Sinking of U-Boats

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — What might be called an official explanation of why this government—and the British government—pursue the policy of not announcing the sinking of any submarine has just been made by none other than Charles Michelson. What is much more interesting than the explanation is the possibility of interpreting the explanation as admitting that our navy has sunk Nazi U-boats.

"Some comment has been made," says Mr. Michelson, "on the president's notice that, when and if German submarines are destroyed there would be no announcement of the events.

"There have been reports, originating from letters to their home folks from men of the patrol fleet, that they had caught U-boats. One referred to two subs destroyed by his vessel. Why, the question is asked, should not the American people be advised that all the losses have not been on our side?

"It is deemed more important that the Germans should not have this information than that our natural curiosity should be gratified. A raiding submarine is ordered to a particular traffic lane to intercept convoys. If that U-boat were knocked off, another would be sent to lie in wait in that ambush. Ultimately, of course, the Reich, getting no word from the raider, will surmise that she is lost, but before that information is conclusive, one or more convoyed fleets may have passed the danger point in safety from attack. Even a few days or a week is of value in this situation.

"That, and the phychological effect of suspense and doubt—not an inconsiderable factor in a war of nerves—explains the riddle."

PERHAPS there is another point which Michelson does not mention—that it would be grist for the mills of the Isolationists to have official admissions that our ships had actually started a shooting war and had destroyed an "enemy" ship—BEFORE, of course, Congress has approved of our going to war.

This may have nothing to do with it, but the man who gave the big publicity to the story of two subs being sunk by an American vessel, as reported by one of the crew of the U. S. boat in a letter to his home folks, was Senator Burton K. Wheler, of Montana, who is pretty nearly the leader of the Isolationist group in the senate.

But the explanation as to why announcements of submarine sinkings are so meager is not quite adequate. Obviously the United States government is following the practice of the British in this respect. The British did the same thing in the last war, and seemed to think, then and now, that it was wise strategy.

THERE is no disposition here to object to its wisodm. But obviously the policy embraces more than the points stated. For example there would be no conflict with the objectives stated if submarine sinkings were announced as up to a certain date, if that date were remote enough. It might be stated, to make the point clearer, on the first of each month that up to a given date some two months previous so many submarines had been sunk. That certainly would not interfere with the strategy of not letting the German admiralty know in time to replace ambushing submarines at particular spots.

Obviously there is another motive on the part of the British admiralty, and that motive has been accepted by our navy, either knowing or without knowing exactly what it is. It should be remembered that the U-boat crews were among the first to revolt in the last war, despite their remarkable success in sinking merchantmen right up to October, 1918.

Listen World!

About Army Dates

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE are nearly two million men in Uncle Sam's army. Young men who, yesterday, were a popular part of the Home Gang. Today they're transplanted, regimented units. I'm not sobbing over that fact. Neither are they. Men must face breaks like that when their country is in a jam. But I wonder, with considerable heat, just why that fact should place them under the following social taboo, as outlined by a certain young lady. Listen:

"Don't date American soldiers.
"Don't waste your time dancing with them
"Or starting permanent friendships with them,
"For they're poor matrimonial prospects.
"They're here today and gone tomorrow,
"And have only 'short range value,'
"So they're not worth your while."

This interesting comment comes from Miss Rosa Theresa Purdy, president of the student body of Mount Holyoke college, in a recent speech before a national conference of students and faculty members of leading women's colleges.

Which makes you wonder twice, for Mount Holyoke is one of America's finest institutions with a student body noted for its fineness, fairness and common sense. And young Rosamond is undoubtedly as regular a young American as ever trod its halls. Even so, one wonders how those two million husky young scrappers are going to react when they read our Honeychile's estimate of theme.

Has it ever occurred to you, Rosamund, that these lads may also have their side of the story? They may not be exactly crazy about their "here today and gone tomorrow" program? They may have had personal plans which this emergency knocked into a cocked hat. Yet they went when they were called—and thousands aren't even waiting for the call. Why?

TO PROTECT THIS NATION AND THE PEOPLE IN IT.... EVEN THOSE GALS WHO, WITHOUT A WORD OF THANKS, CHECK THEM OFF AS' "POOR MATRIMONIAL RISKS"....NOT WORTH MISS AMERICA'S ATTENTION.'

Let me tell you this, youngster—EVERY AMERICAN SOLDIER IS WORTH ALL THE CHEER AND ENCOURAGEMENT, GRATITUDE AND FRIENDLY ADMIRATION WHICH THE WOMEN OF AMERICA CAN GIVE HIM.

This does not imply promiscuous hero worship. That's in bad taste anywhere, at any time. But friendliness is never in bad taste. And the girl who can't share a dance and a laugh with a lonely lad is poor pickings for any male.

As for this notion that a man "isn't worth while" unless he's decorated with wedding rings and fat endowments or life insurance policies, didn't that viewpoint fade out with good old Queen Vic? Seems to me I've heard a rumor that gals are people, nowadays, with plenty of interests, besides matrimony, in their pretty noodles. So why this frantic fuss to welcome only those heroes who are headed toward the altar?

THERE'S JUST A CHANCE, YOU KNOW, THAT THE BOYS MAY BE A TRIFLE CHOOSEY THEMSELVES....AND NEED SOME CONVINCING THAT THE GALS ARE WORTH T-H-E-I-R WHILE!

FDR Favors Plan to Make Unions Incorporate and Reveal Finances

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Two matters were discussed at the White House congressional conference on anti-strike legislation, not revealed in the published report of the meeting.

One was a proposal to incorporate labor unions and require them to reveal their financial records. The other was a secret ballot on strike action.

The president approved the first, but turned down the second.

He declared that he favored unions making public their revenues and expenditures, just as business concerns are required to do. This, he said, would do much to drive racketeers and other undesirable elements out of unions; also, put a curb on one man or group control.

However, Roosevelt urged that this curb be extended to include other public bodies, such as the America First Committee and Fight For Freedom.

"The public is entitled to know," he said, "where they are getting their money and how and for what they are spending it."

The president voiced doubt about the advisability of a compulsory secret strike vote, on the ground that this did not necessarily insure a free ballot. Also, he said, it might backfire against the government.

He pointed out that if a vote held by edict of law favored a strike in an important defense industry, then the government would be in the position of sanctioning the shutdown. It was Roosevelt's opinion that the way to block strikes was to prevent them from occurring.

CHARLES EDISON, ex-secretary of the navy, now governor of New Jersey, is proud of one thing: the destroyer Kearny did not sink. It was one of the destroyers he built while handling construction in the navy, and at a time when he was under criticism for top-heavy destroyers. But Edison put so many watertight compartments into the new speed-demons that they are almost unsinkable....Unlike Secretary of the Navy Knox, a newspaper publisher, Secretary of the Navy Edison welcomed press criticism. When newspapers reported flaws in destroyer design, he took the position that criticism was a healthy thing....Lovely Mrs. Lionel Atwill, greeting Italian Ambassador Prince Colonna, said: "How are you Prince Eau de Cologna?"

Wall Street Wizard Odlum in one of his efforts to save "little business," overlooked the little matter of good labor relations. After elaborately equipping three trains with models of articles needed by the army-navy to show to little business during a tour of the country, Odlum forgot to send any labor representatives along. OPM labor chiefs hit the ceiling, and the labor men are now on the trains....The Duke and Duchess of Windsor will be satirized in a Broadway musical review being written by Vincent Youmans, author of "Tea for Two."...Congressman Sol Bloom, called upon to speak at a dinner for Latin American officials, rose, grinned, said: "I get mixed up between my Spanish and my English." From another table came the voice of Texas Senator Long Tom Connally: "Can you speak either one, Sol?"

Educated Soldiers.

LT.-GEN. BEN LEAR is going to give the 120,000 officers and men of his crack Second army an opportunity to learn what it is all about.

The scholarly cavalryman, who fought his way from buck private to one of the ablest top officers in the army, is instituting an elaborate educational program that will make military training history. Nothing like it has ever been tried on such a scale in the U. S. army.

As part of their military training, and on training time, every soldier and officers of the Second army will be required to attend a series of weekly lectures by outstanding educators and experts.

The unique program will run 13 weeks, with more than 400 carefully selected officers and civilian educators conducting the classes. The lectures, totalling three hours a week, will be divided into two general courses: (1) general educational, (2) the organization, functions and operations of the U. S. armed services, army, navy, marine corps, air corps.

After this basic program has been completed, Lear will follow it up with a one-hour weekly lecture on current affairs by outstanding authorities.

Purpose of the plan is to improve the military training and effectiveness of the civilian soldiers. It is Lear's enlightened view that the American soldier will be an even better soldier than he already is if he has a clear grasp of why he is in the army and how an army functions from top to bottom.

"In spite of the fact that the American is the most intelligent soldier in the world," Lear explains, "the urgent questions of state that have influenced their lives are but dimly understood by some soldiers, if understood at all. In many instances, this lack of knowledge acts as a brake on the soldier's interest in his work and a deterrent, therefore, to satisfactory results in his training. This condition is a challenge that the Second army intends to overcome in the belief that in doing so we will make better soldiers and better citizens."

Topping the list of ace civilian educators for the program are: Dr. William Fletcher of Yale, on geography and world trade; Dr. Ralph H. Gabriel of Yale, on U. S. history, the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, and on the Fascist, Nazi and Communist systems in the present world crisis; and Dr. Gordon A. Allport of Harvard, on propaganda methods of totalitarian governments.

Note—General Lear's training innovation has drawn high praise from war department chiefs and may be ordered in the other three citizen armies.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—When, nearly two decades ago, John C. Wilson forsook Wall street, he committed a twin rebellion. First, he ran away from prosperity, which The Street had to give in those days; second, he outraged the tradition that all Yale men were irrevocably committeed to bond-selling careers.

There have been times, lots of times, when Wilson regretted that flight. But now he has achieved the ambition that actuated it, and he feels better. He has scored a success as a stage director, in Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit." The youthful recklessness has been justified.

When "Blithe Spirit" played in New Haven recently, a Yale reporter suggested that Wilson had left that college stage-struck. Wilson enlarged upon the impeachment: He had come into Yale stage-struck, bearing the virus down from Andover. There he had been the busiest of prep school actors, just as he became the busiest of college performers with the Yale Drama. His counselor was Monty Woolley, latterly the astringent house guest in "The Man Who Came to Dinner." A fellow player was a young zealot named Henry Luce.

WILSON entered bonds, in the phase of the times, at the behest of his father. But he solaced his longing for the theater by acting with an amateur group. Finally he professionalized this discontent by joining a touring troup of "Polly Preferred." A short service to the films, as assistant director, tightened his bond with show business. A studio lay-off allowed him a holiday in Sicily, where he wrote scenarios in job lots. When most of his ideas, and all of his money, were exhausted, he set out for Wall Street again to renew his endeavors to keep body and soul together.

It was at this point that Coward entered his life and rescued him from The Bourse. He became the author-star's manager. Later, he organized his own producing firm, with Lynn Fontanne, Alfred Lunt and Coward as associates. The firm's immediate success placed him in the front rank of managers, but it failed to assuage his longing to participate in the actual building of plays. That ambition, born at Andover, never grew smaller. He still hankered for a place on the stage itself.

His misfortune was too many riches. Since Coward and Lunt were peerless directors in their own right, he could hardly propose himself for their jobs. He is not one to suggest improvements on perfection. He resigned himself to the business end of the firm.

BUT the mail which brought the manuscript of "Blithe Spirit" brought opportunity, too. Coward was held in London, Lunt was committed to a tour. His shot at direction had arrived. Wilson realized the risk he took. Coward's expert direction had become accepted as an integral part of his plays. Should that be lacking, the blame would be squarely on Wilson. His chin was shockingly exposed.

With success have come offers to direct other plays. These are gratifying in the extreme for they are Wilson's assurance that he guessed right in throwing away his stocks-and-bonds kit.

A Farmer's Diary

Making Applebutter

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WE PICKED up apples beneath the trees in a neighboring farmer's orchard, and made 15 gallons of old-fashioned applebutter. The hail storm in July had damaged this apple crop—many apples had cuts and scars that had followed the wounds of the hail. It took more time to pare and core them, but the color and flavor were unsurpassed—and the cider was excellent.

Our boys hauled the wood down from the slope to the kettle placed below the barn. Since I did not want this to be permanent, I used a steel oil drum and a tall ice cream tub to support the rail from which the kettle hung. I improvised a wind break from a fruit tree box and lid—that same versatile big box which served as a brooder house all summer.

I chained the big copper kettle to the crossbeam, and almost filled it with cider, drawn from the barrel. The four little boys stood by to watch—and when the kettle was filled, the small white rubber hose found another use, as each boy in turn sucked cool rich cider from the pail. The littlest one blew through the tube, when his turn came, and laughed to see the bubbles form. I feared for a quartet of stomach aches, but my fears proved groundless.

In half an hour the contents of the kettle steamed heavily and soon fine bubbles moved upward and burst on top. Then, on the side where the fire leaped higher, the heated cider began to roll and boil. I carefully skimmed off the froth with the sieve strainer and kept the cider boiling until half of it was evaporated. Then my wife poured in 13 gallons of "schnits" (quartered apples). Great white layers of froth moved on the surface and when it brimmed the kettle, I poured in enough fresh cider to keep it from overflowing.

When all the cut apples were in, and had become a part of the thickening mass, it was darker, and the bursting bubbles plopped and sputtered as I stirred it constantly. Three different times we sampled it by cooling some in a saucer before we found it thick enough. Then quickly we added 25 pounds of granulated sugar and some spice, and kept on stirring vigorously for a few more minutes.

We dipped it out, then, into big gallon jars such as restaurants purchase filled with mayonnaise. Next morning a thick scum had formed and the whole mass was just the right consistency to spread. Now all winter we shall enjoy the essence of apple time with the added memories of open fire and fragrant blue wood smoke and the cool tang of late Indian summer days.

ENGINEERS FOR UNDERWRITERS START SURVEYS

Begin Study of City's Fire and Water Systems With View of Insurance Cut.

Representatives of the National Board of Fire Underwriters today started to make an extensive study and inspection of Mansfield's water supply and fire-fighting equipment which may save the city $50,000 a year.

Arriving in the city late yesterday, three engineers from the insurance group contacted city officials and made preparations for their inspection which will take from one to three weeks time.

Heading the group is R. C. Dennett of New York City, who is accompanied by R. A. Young, Chicago, and James Quinn, New York.

Dennett, who will examine the waterworks and the water distribution system, will be here for the remainder of the week but Young and Quinn, who will inspect the fire signal system, the fire apparatus and other equipment, will be here about three weeks to complete their study.

In addition to their inspection, the underwriters' representatives will be called upon to make recommendations on the type of fire apparatus the city should purchase with the revenue from the half mill levy, successfully voted upon last month.

Dennett said that the report would not be returned to the city for at least two months. It is hoped that their report will pave the way for placing Mansfield in a more favorable premium class.

TRANSPORT MEN GIVEN TRAINING

PHILADELPHIA —(U.P.)— Philadelphia has inaugurated a first aid training program for men in key positions of transportation and industry. The program is under the supervision of Philadelphia police surgeons.

Dr. Hubley R. Owen, public health director reported that taxi-cab drivers, bus drivers, Philadelphia Transportation company employes, railroad employes and important industrial plant workers would receive first-aid training for emergency work.

Two superintendents and 16 "cabulance" drivers of a Philadelphia taxicab concern were the first to report for training.

The government-sponsored British Broadcasting corporation now radio-casts daily news bulletins in Afrikaans, Arabic, Czech, English, French, Gaelic, German, Greek, Italian, Magyar, Polish, Portuguese, Rumanian, Serbo-Croat, Spanish, Turkish and Welsh.

CHAPTER VI

"Could boom things for a time. You should advise Mrs. Steel to take in boarders. She's famous for running church suppers." Erasmus gave his beard a final tug. "The Hanscomb can't stand much of a rush and if Peck Mather doesn't clean things up a bit, he'll find himself paying a bonus to the trade he does snare. Your friend with the magnetic feet must have hardy ancestors. Well, I'm leaving. If a call comes from Wilcox's, tell them I'll be along in the course of an hour or so. Ed can't last long, though. I'll give him a couple of days."

Ordinarily a statement like that would have depressed Carol greatly. Dr. Silverthorne had a dispassionate way of discussing death—births, too—but he always brooded over the passing of a patient. As if he somehow had failed in a professional task. Just now, however, his receptionist's mind was too greatly taken up by Jericho's good fortune. Nevertheless, she deferred her lunch hour until she was sure that the doctor had time to reach the Wilcox farm. Scarcely half a block from the office she was startled to hear her name called and turned to see a car slowing at the curb.

It was Mr. Dennison.

"Going your way," he observed. "Can I drop you at your gate? It's warm walking today." As he spoke he reached out and flung open the roadster's door. That made an acceptance of the invitation rather compelling.

"Why, thank you very much!"

As Carol sank back into the deep upholstery the first thing that came to mind was that she had been picked up directly in front of the bank. Wige would have something to say about that now, if he saw it. After all, what difference did it make? "How is your foot?" she asked with polite concern, glancing down as if she expected to see the injured member swathed in bandages. It wasn't.

"Coming along nicely. And how are you?"

"I'm fine."

"I fancy so." He said that quietly, but without any suggestion of the veiled sarcasm Carol had come to associate with his talk. Privately she had concluded that he might have a keen sense of humor but for some reason feared it would break out and so was continually on his guard. After all, she had conversed with him but twice and when his foot was hurting him. In the excitement of this unexpected situation she promptly forgot the puzzle that was revolving in her mind when Dennison hailed her: What the "proposition" could be he had attempted to sell Andy but hadn't succeeded.

Now he was speaking again in the same casual way. And driving slowly, too.

"As a matter of fact, Miss Delaine, I was wondering if you weren't unusually happy just now."

There it was again. Why must he spoil almost everything he said? She countered that one with Andy's dismissive:

"Why not? I've admired your car every time I've seen it. It's beautiful." She was aware that her driver gave her a quick glance, but she continued to look straight ahead.

"Good Lord!" was his vexatious retort. "Excuse it. But I hope you don't really think I'm . . . like that!"

"Then there is something else I should be happy about?"

"It sounds asinine. But I was thinking about our plant locating here. From the way I've been buttonholed and interviewed the last twenty-four hours, I had an impression . . ."

"Why of course I'm happy about that! Perhaps I should have started enthusing at once. But I didn't know a thing about it until Doctor Silverthorne told me an hour or two ago. And he couldn't tell me very much. Then it's true?"

"It's true enough." Dennison cursed himself mentally for his callow attempt. This girl was sure to think him an utter simpleton.

He had visited Delaine at his shop that same morning and reluctantly accepted the little tailor's terms on the strength of a telegram received from the home office. Nothing else to do just now the wire said, later perhaps. Dennison was to make the best bargain he could. Progress was essential. Delaine was politely imperturbable, but the younger man thought he detected a certain smugness in his air. Of course he had told his family, gloated over his cleverness. He would.

Now, it appeared that he had nothing of the sort. More than that, he had succeeded in making Lawhead's rising young executive look undeniably silly. In spite of her unfortunate choice of relatives, this girl was unusually attractive and she had a distinct personality. For some reason he could not explain she had been in his thoughts quite often during the past forty-eight hours. This morning he had been wondering how her father's stroke would affect her. From Jericho's viewpoint, the Delaines would be rich. They'd probably splurge and that, so far as Carol was concerned, seemed a pity.

Before he could think of any satisfactory was to escape from his present awkward dilemma, the Steel house was reached and Carol had her hand on the car door. He opened it for her. At the same time a quick glance revealed Andre Delaine's slight figure reposing in a porch chair. That, too, was quite in keeping with the situation.

"Thank you very much, Mr. Dennison," Carol said quietly as she stepped out.

"Not at all."

He pulled the door shut with a slam, lifted his hand in a stiff gesture and drove on, picking up speed as he went. Carol noted an amused gleam in Andy's blue eyes as she mounted the steps.

"I got a ride home today," she observed carelessly. "Pretty car, isn't it?"

"Most attractive. You, too, ducklet. Our Ben Hur has been a long time in arriving, but he knows how to grace the appearance of his chariot. How did you manage it?"

"I didn't. I had just left the office on my way home when he called to me and asked if I didn't want to ride. Wasn't that all right?"

"Assuredly."

"He must be on his way out to look over the plant site. I didn't know anything about the new factory until Doctor mentioned it." Carol leaned against a porch post and looked down accusingly as her father. "Why didn't you tell me, Andy."

"To tell you the truth, I don't know much about it myself.... no more than anybody else seems to. I gather that it will be quite a layout. If it is, the town has had a break at last." He changed the topic abruptly. "I'm glad I saw you drive up here just now."

"Why?" she asked in surprise.

"I suppose it's my artistic appreciation. You know that bus goes beautifully with your hair ....the color, I mean. It occured to me that you should have just such a car of your own. And a chauffeur."

"Silly!"

"But it isn't. Sudden inspirations like that have accounted for a lot of surprising happenings. One never knows. Wouldn't you like such an outfit?" There was a little gleam of interest in his eyes as he waited for her answer. Wondering what Dennison might have said.

"Oh, I'd take a smaller car to start with," she decided indifferently. "And I think I'd prefer to drive it myself. But I imagine we'll stick to the family wheelbarrow for a while...unless everybody here gets rich." She was reminded suddenly of Silverthorne's suggestion of boarders. "Do you suppose we might get a break, too, Andy?"

"Quien sabe." He shrugged expressively. "This mounting wave may roll up a new presser for me and a flivver for you. We'll stand by to grab if it does. I only hope the whole thing does not prove a dud."

"So do I. Yes, Auntie?" Mrs. Steel had appeared at the front door.

"Aren't you going to eat your lunch? The things are on the table waiting." She pushed open the screen and flapped her apron vigorously. "I declare I'll be glad when this Indian summer or whatever it is gets done with. The flies are worse than they've been all season. Hurry in while I've got the door open."

"Oh, Carol!" Andy called after her. "Keep the color of that car in mind, will you? And fetch me my zither before you sit down. I want to think."

Wige Lennon's appreciation of Jericho's good fortune was tempered by the fact that his grilled window in the bank was directly opposite the open front door and he had chanced to witness Carol's acceptance of Dennison's invitation to ride home. He could not hear what the man in the car said, but there was something so casual in the way he opened the door for his passenger, that Wige was left with the uncomfortable impression that it was prearranged.

It was a funny time for Carol to be going home for lunch, anyway. Maybe she had the afternoon off. He never had been given reason to feel jealous before because Carol never went out with anyone but him. Wige did not define this experience as jealousy, none the less it gave him a feeling of depression that might have accounted for his cash being slightly out of balance at closing time, a matter that took him more than two hours to rectify.

When he reached home he found that his mother had been shopping and had heard the news. She was desirous of further details as was his brother Charlie.

THREE GROUPS HOLD "VETERANS' NIGHT"

Sons of Union Veterans and Auxiliary, Members of Woman's Relief Corps Enjoy Dinner and Program at North Lake Park.

"VETERANS' NIGHT" observance was sponsored Sunday night by McLaughlin Camp No. 12, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, and its auxiliary, No. 4, with the cooperation of the Woman's Relief Corps, No. 26, Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, at North Lake park pavilion. Seventy-five men and women of these organizations were in attendance.

Dinner was served at 6:30 p. m. at tables decorated in patriotic colors. Pink roses were used as centerpieces and candles were in red, white and blue. In observance of the 33rd anniversary of the Sons of Union Veterans, the auxiliary president, Mrs. Elsie Trisler, presented a large cake to members of the organization. Mrs. Katherine Sattler presented a cake to the auxiliary in honor of the sixth anniversary of that group's founding. Greetings were extended by Mrs. Bess Buchanan of the W. R. C.

Guest speakers were Mayor W. J. Locke and Robert C. Horn. To piano accompaniment by Mr. Sutcliffe, Fred Jackson sang "Tenting Tonight." Tap dances were presented by Gene Calver, Mary Lou Anderson and Jacqueline Pilot. Mrs. Nellie Phipps gave several readings and group singing of patriotic songs was enjoyed.

Civil war relics were displayed. Also shown was a miniature of Abraham Lincoln's birthplace, soil from the same place, a photostatic copy of his Gettysburg Address, and many other relics. Robert Stofer recited the Gettysburg Address and the finale for the program was a tableau in which Miss Lois Addlesperger represented the "Goddess of Liberty," Joseph Stofer was "Uncle Sam," Robert Stofer represented Abraham Lincoln and Mrs. Phipps appeared as Lincoln's wife. Reading of Civil war statistics was given by Mrs. Della Cochran. Concluding song was "God Bless America."

Arrangements for the affair were made by Mrs. Harry Constance assisted by Mrs. Sarah Case. Miss Mary Beilstein, patriotic instructor for Auxiliary No. 4, Mrs. Faye Stofer, of the W. R. C., and Carl Sattler, of the Sons of Veterans, had charge of the patriotic portion of the program.

Talk To Be Given On Development Of Character

Mrs. R. G. Williams, member of the Ohio Parent-Teacher association congress, will present the final lecture in her series on "Character Development" for all PTA members and their guests Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. in the Y. W. C. A. Her subject will be "Character Building Agencies In Mansfield and What They Offer the Community In the Way of Character Development."

Several members have been appointed by Mrs. Williams to contact the various agencies and to visit them prior to this meeting. Members and the agencies to be studied are the following: Mrs. Herman Brunk, housing; Mrs. Warren Fort, domestic relations court; Mrs. Maurice Stretch, welfare agency; Mrs. R. Y. Davis, extra-curricular agencies; Mrs. R. S. Osbun, delinquency, and Mrs. C. Young, churches.

Service Guild Holds Meeting Monday Evening

Wesleyan Service Guild members of the Ontario Community church held a meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Everett Smith, Springmill road. Mrs. Robert Burger gave an interesting talk on "The Religious Element in the Folklore of American Democracy." Mrs. Walter Andrews assisted the hostess during the meeting.

Devotions were led by Mrs. William Mabee. A short business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. Leo Mowry. Contests were played and prizes won by Mrs. Ruth Taylor and Miss Nora Mabee. Luncheon was served at small tables decorated with Christmas appointments. At the close of the evening members held a gift exchange. Mrs. John Mabee will be hostess for the next meeting of the club, to be held on Jan. 12 at her home on the West Fourth street road.

Sorority Honors Pledges With Tea At Local Hotel

Members of Sigma Kappa Gamma sorority honored their pledges, the Misses Anita Stebelton and Eva Schultz, and one reinstated member, Mrs. Raymond Jurgens, with a tea at the Mansfield-Leland hotel from 3 to 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The president, Miss Dorothy Kelly, presided at the tea table.

Toast was given by Miss Eileen Minard. Programs were made in black and gold, as a replica of the sorority pins, and had the Greek letters on the cover. Committee in charge of the tea was comprised of Miss Helen Desterhaft, chairman, Mrs. Richard James and Miss Marguerite Boyer. Next regular meeting will be informal initiation at Johns park pavilion on Dec. 11.

Home-Mixed Syrup Relieves Coughs Quickly

Saves Big Dollars. So Easy! No Cooking.

The surprise of your life is waiting for you, in your own kitchen, when it comes to the relief of coughs due to colds. In just a moment, you can mix a cough syrup that gives you about 4 times as much for your money, and is amazing for quick results.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup, and you have a full pint of really wonderful cough medicine. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and children love it.

This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing. You'll say it's astounding in its action.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

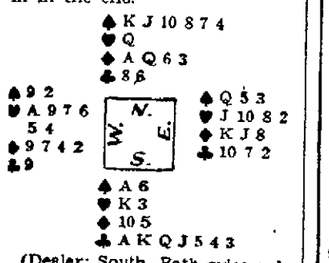
BY

Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T EVER GIVE UP

Rubber bridge possesses one harm which cannot be found in he generally-better game of atch-point duplicate. No matter how far behind you may be, here is always the remote chance hat a great big hand, or a few remendous defeats of hostile contracts, can land you on top at the nish, so keep on trying. You may in in the end.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♦	Pass

This was the deciding hand in match for the benefit of the ritish-American Ambulance orps in St. Louis, with Dr. Sigund Spaeth, music authority, nd this writer, of New York, repesenting the East against the Vest in the persons of John E. imon paired at the start with harles Lockett, and in the later ubbers with Mrs. Harry Tenenaum, three home-town topliners, he proceeds going to the humaniarian organization

After a ding-dong battle the isitors led by 1,330 points when he last rubber began. Each side as vulnerable by the sixth deal f that rubber. Notice how Mrs. enenbaum—known as "Beanie" mong the western masters—opped a killing diamond lead ith a bold psychic bid of that ait.

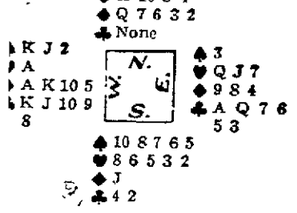
Dr. Spaeth laid down his heart . The 2 played on it was a suitreference signal asking for a vitch to the lower-ranking diamonds. as a high card would have alled for a spade when it obviously could not request a heart reeat. Mrs. Tenenbaum also saw hat signal, so called the dummy's on the lead of the diamond 2, isdaiming the finesse and going ll out for a squeeze

Six clubs, the heart K and then he club 3 "fixed" that East hand. With the diamond 10 held by outh, the K could not be safely iscarded. Neither could any of he three spades But a card had o be played. It was a spade, so he A. K. and J made the contract.

the diamond K had been tossed, hen the diamond 10, spade A and pade K would have finished the and.

That gave victory to the West y 120 points—4,880 to 4,760. It as fine bridge in the clutch.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulerable.)

If South gets into 5-Spades on his deal, doubled by West, how many tricks should it be beaten y perfect defense.

AST MATRONS' PARTY.

High Style Fashions, Fancy Work

Beloved by young and old, the shirtwaist dress continues as America's fashion favorite! Because it's comfortable as well as smart, Pattern 9915 by Marian Martin leads the rest. The front buttoning makes it easy to don quickly and the cluster of gathers at each side of the front skirt is a very new note. For ease in movement, the armhole is cut slightly deeper—and the shoulder seams are cut farther forward than average, giving a shallow yoke effect at the front. The set-in belt may be top-stitched to match the optional pocket Order this pattern right away—plan a short-sleeved version, perhaps with a contrast collar and cuffs, and another frock with long sleeves!

Pattern 9915 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards 39 inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I FOUND IT physically impossible to answer my father'c question immediately. The muscles of my throat were as constricted as if a strangling hand had been laid upon them. But finally I found voice enough to croak feebly:—

"Yes. I can give you that word, with one modification."

His eyebrows drew together portentiously.

"There can be no modifications," he said.

"Father! I ask only that you hear me," I pleaded, then rushed on without permission.

"I will obey you implicitly in everything In all probability no occasion will ever arise for my disobedience. But I must tell you that if ever I see my children need me—my husband is able to take care of himself, and I promise to obey you where re is concerned.

First Duty to Children

"But I cannot promise to stand by if I see my children really need me. However, I shall know that the one fact of going to them in defiance of orders will mean my being dropped from your services. I must risk that. I probably risk it by telling you this, but I must be honest with you and with myself."

His steady, frigid eyes looked into mine for a fraction of a second that seemed an hour. Then they softened, and the tender wraith of a smile touched his lips.

"You are too much of a mother to make the best government operative," he said. "But, I will accept your word with that one reservation. I shall see to it that you never have to make the choice between obedience and going to your children."

Madge Is Grateful

I knew what that meant. If my children were in the same house with me, I never would be given by my father any other task than that of guarding them. With a surge of thankfulness, I knew that it was the only task I would wish, and walking over to him a bit warily I put my hand on his sleeve.

"I'll try not to displease you again, Father," I said, and he put both arms around me tenderly.

"I know you will not," he said with a kiss which I knew was one of full pardon. "And now I must telephone for the surgeon. Stay here I may need you"

The peal of the door bell punctuated his sentence, but as he started for the front door he gave me a command.

"Don't dare to come near the door," he said. "And don't worry. I shall answer it only from behind the night chain. But I imagine it is the surgeon."

The next moment his voice in cordial greeting, "Ah, Doctor Twitchell! I am indeed glad to see you," confirmed his conjecture. Then he came back into the living room, followed by a middle-aged man with the air of the competent surgeon about him.

"I want you to meet my daughter, Mrs. Graham, Dr. Twitchell," he said. Then, barely giving us time for the usual greetings, he spoke preemptorily to me.

"Please wait here until we return," he said, then led the surgeon toward the basement, explaining as he went that his important patient was upstairs.

"But you might as well take a look at these rats downstairs before you begin your real work," he said. "One of them, the least dangerous of the lot, is in acute pain If you think wise, a shot of something to put him to sleep for a while would not only alleviate his agony, but relieve the guards from the necessity of watching him closely in the meantime. It wouldn't do any harm, either, to give—"

Agrees with Spencer

His voice died away on the staircase, but I guessed that he was suggesting that the unharmed gangster also be put to sleep temporarily. I knew that I would never be certain of this, however—my father and the surgeon, with the guards, of course, would be the only custodians of that particular secret—and I composed myself to inaction while my father should be absent in the basement.

It was but a few minutes before they came into the room again, and I heard their voices before their entrance.

"You are a good diagnostician," Dr. Twitchell was saying. "There is no condition down there which cannot safely wait until I have taken care of Mr. Underwood."

Underwood's Case First

"They would wait anyway," my father said grimly. "I should not have taken you down there, having respect for your professional ethics, if I had thought there was imminent need for your services. Mr. Underwood comes first."

The surgeon bowed, with an inscrutable look at my father.

"I am at your disposal," he said, and my father turned to me.

"Will you please tell Lillian that we shall be upstairs in less than five minutes?" he said.

Little Flower Study Club Meets

Little Flower Study club meeting was held Monday at the home of Miss Edna Horning, on West First street. The paper, "St. Therese of Little Flower," was presented in a very descriptive manner by Miss Nell Carrigan, who showed a portrait of the saint to illustrate her talk.

Mrs. S. M. Bunsey was welcomed as a new member. Guest of the club was Mrs Joseph Daly. Christmas decorations were used on the table when lunch was served by the hostess. Next meeting will be a Christmas dinner at the home of Mrs. Marion Downs on Crescent road on Dec. 15. There will be a gift exchange at that time.

There will be a covered dish dinner at 6 o'clock to be followed by a bingo party. Special entertainment is being planned. Arrangements are being made to have a supervisor in charge of the smaller children.

Santa and the WHITE ROSE

by Sigrid Arne

The Story So Far: King Harald's land is unhappy because of an ill omen; an old man has attended a festival, cut a white rose in half, and turned the halves into infants. Then he disappeared.

Chapter Two

A CRIMSON OPAL AND A WHITE FEATHER

THE queer story of the old man, the white rose and the two infants spread quickly through the city. It reached the White Castle and a guardsman hurried to tell King Harald.

The King was a kindly man who had read all the wise books. He thought he knew the meaning of the story but he wanted to be sure, so he said, "Take me to the grandmother in the square. She has lived longer than I and surely she is wiser."

So the King and the guardsmen walked through the streets. The people parted silently as the King approached. He smiled gently at the old grandmother who tried to rise, and said, "No, sit still. Your summers have been more than mine. Tell me, what does the story mean?"

"Sire, it is the same sign that happened in the time of Eric the Great. That was when the hundred years war started."

"So I remember."

"Sire," she went on, "those infants will grow up to make trouble They are each only half a being. They will be restless and bring evil fortune with them They will disturb our peace. If they never meet—" she shrugged her shoulders. "—then we shall have a long war"

* * *

THE King turned gravely to the men in the crowd and said, "We must find the homes into which those children are born tonight."

So the men said goodbye to their wives, turned over the keys, gave their sons instructions about the farms and rode out of the City of Seven Castles For a week they rode, knocking on all the doors, searching for the two homes into which a boy and a girl had been born.

But they never found those homes.

The old man had disappeared as if he were mist. No one had seen him after he left town. But I will tell you who he was and what happened.

He was Santa Claus. He had been on a walking trip through all our cities to see how many people are kind and how many selfish. He does that once in a generation.

This time he had no sooner reached the road outside the city than he disappeared into the sky. He stayed for a week in a castle of clouds feeling very sad about what he'd seen at the festival and because he had to bring trouble to the world.

THEN one moonlit night he returned to a peasant's cottage not a hundred miles from the City of Seven Castles A young couple lived there and they sat in their garden talking. Santa stepped silently into their kitchen and placed the baby boy in a cradle by the fireplace. Before he left he put a white eagle's feather in the child's pink fingers.

Then he floated through the night sky for many miles until he came to the castle in the next kingdom. There he entered a tower window, walked quietly down narrow stone stairs and into a big room where he placed the girl baby on a large, canopied bed.

She gurgled up at him as he put her down, and caught his white beard. He chuckled and sat down for a minute on the edge of the bed Then he reached into his coat and brought out an opal which blazed crimson as he turned it. This he placed beside the child on the bed. Then he slipped out the window and was gone.

TOMORROW: Santa cares a pipe.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Dec. 3, 1941.

SPLENDID opportunity may come knocking at the door insistently and soundly judging by the very auspicious tone of the planetary aspects. There should be little chance for ignoring or sidestepping this happy summons, since some very influential, powerful and friendly personages stand ready to offer the opening as well as the funds and other desirable means for promotion. However there may also be a measure of opposition, so guard well the advantages as well as the possessions and enviable resources. The public interest seems involved and also romance and social prestige are enhanced and enjoyed. Sign all writings with caution.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the eve of a year of much happiness, advancement and secure prestige. Friendly aid seems ready to promote high ambitions, although be alert to certain antagonisms, guarding well the advantages as well as public honors and personal happiness. Be extremely cautious with agreements, papers and all writings.

A child born on this day should have outstanding ambitions with the ability, credit, prestige and personal popularity to attain them. Its life should have much gratification, honors and personal romance or social preferments.

It was not until the discovery of North America that the world fur trade got into its stride.

HEADS MISSION

CRESTLINE — Rev. Fr. Shumaker from the Mission House at Lima is in charge of the sermon for the Mission which opened Sunday at St. Joseph's Catholic church here and which will continue through Monday, Dec. 8.

Masses are held each morning at 6:30 and 8 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m. and are read by the local pastor, Rev. Fr. Slattery.

LEESVILLE COUPLE MARRIED IN CHURCH CEREMONY SUNDAY

CRESTLINE — In a ceremony performed Sunday afternoon before the altar of St. John's Lutheran church at Leesville. Rev. Simon A. Metzger, pastor, united Dorothy Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Cole, and Russell McKean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester McKean in marriage.

The single ring service was witnessed by a large group of relatives and friends.

Altar decorations included two baskets of pink and white chrysanthemums and snapdragons, palms, ferns and two seven branch candelabra.

The bride given in marriage by her father had her sister, Betty Cole, as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were two cousins Letha and Elaine Cole of Toledo. Another cousin little Mary Etta Cole was flower girl.

Lowell McKean served his brother as best man. Ushers were Charles Eckert, cousin of the groom and Norbert Cole, cousin of the bride.

An ivory satin frock made with sweetheart neckline, leg-o-mutton sleeves and the full skirt sweeping into a two yard train was worn by the bride.

Her fingertip veil was caught with a tirra of seed pearls. Her only jewelry was a gold necklace set with a pearl, the gift of the groom. White rose and white pompoms fashioned her bridal bouquet.

Maid of honor wore blue satin with a shoulder length veil and carried pink roses and sweetpeas. The frocks of the bridesmaids were made identical of woodrose satin with which they wore matching veils and carried bouquets of pink roses, white pompoms and blue sweetpeas.

A colonial bouquet of white lillies around a pillow of white mums was carried by the flower girl who was in copen blue satin.

Following the ceremony a reception for about 60 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents.

When the couple left later in the day on a wedding trip to Chicago the bride was attired in a three piece wool suit of soldier blue trimmed in gray fur and accessories of black.

Upon their return the couple will reside in Shelby.

Both the bride and groom graduated from Leesville school. The bride is employed at the Kotz Insurance company in Shelby while the groom is employed by the Pennsylvania railway here.

GALION PLAYS FIRST CAGE GAME TONIGHT

GALION — First basketball game of the season for Galion High school cagers will be held tonight at the Junior high school gymnasium when the Galion varsity and reserve teams are host to Mt. Gilead High school quintes.

Coach Clarence Mackey would not announce his first team before tonight's game. He did say, however, that the following boys will represent the varsity: Jenkins, only letterman this year, together with Benbow, Ramsay and Stoner will have guard positions; Metzger and Pollock are centers; Robertson, Heskett, Dye and Kump are forwards; and two extra players are Schaefer, forward, and Musselman, guard.

VITAMINS

BOY!.. IT'S GREAT TO FEEL GOOD!

But all too many of us don't. Tired, weary, we drag along from day to day. Thousands, who are not getting enough of these vital substances, may find vitamins and minerals the key to a new happier life. Get Vimms today!

Only 50¢ AT YOUR DRUGGIST'S

Lever Brothers Company

VIMMS

GIVE YOU

6 VITAMINS 3 MINERALS

in one tempting tablet at the

LOWEST COST EVER

for any product of comparable type and potency

"NOBODY loves you when you're blue" is more than a song. It's the plain truth! When you're tired, jittery, down on the world, you can't even like yourself. And it's so easy to get back on top when a lack of vitamins is to blame. Fortunately, there's a way to find out if vitamins and minerals will help you.

New Easy Way

Vimms are waiting at your nearest drug store. They're tempting little tablets, easy to swallow and pleasant to eat. Vimms bring you six vitamins and three minerals. Take three a day and you'll get all the vitamins normally needed.

Minerals Vital, Too

Note, please, that Vimms bring you minerals as well as vitamins. This is because both vitamins and minerals are essential. The most important function of Vitamin D, for instance, is to make it possible for the body to use calcium and phosphorus properly. Vitamin D, calcium, and phosphorus work as a team. When one is lacking, the others cannot do their job.

Fortify Your Diet

To be sure you get six vitamins, plus three vital minerals, be sure you ask for Vimms. Fortify your diet with this scientifically balanced food supplement. And when you buy a package of Vimms, look at the label, just as you do when you buy other foods. Note that the potencies of all of the vitamins in Vimms are fully adequate... in the most expensive vitamins as well as in the less costly ones.

Start Today

Many people take extra vitamins only when they have colds. But why wait? If you haven't been getting enough vitamins and minerals, the time to help build up your resistance is now. Remember—vitamins may do much more for you than merely help build resistance. For whatever reason you may need vitamins and minerals, try Vimms. They may help you feel better than you ever thought you could.

Isn't it worth a few cents to find out? Don't take chances—take Vimms. Today!

U. S. Gov't experts say 3 out of 4 need more vitamins and minerals!

WHAT A 50¢-PACKAGE OF VIMMS WILL GIVE YOU

(in terms of a good food source of each vitamin and mineral)

IMPORTANT! Vimms are a scientifically balanced vitamin-mineral food supplement. They are not in themselves a complete diet nor a substitute for other foods. You need in addition the proteins, fats, carbohydrates and other elements that each of these good foods supplies.

GEN. JOHNSON: Indict Investment Firm on Fraud Charge

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—From the president down, there has been scarcely an official voice raised in the past two years that has not given us the assurance, from time to time with more or less emphasis, and without any back-tracking that we can do this defense job without losing any economic gains.

Johnson

The latest of these is a foreword by Sidney Hillman to a publication of the labor division on ships for freedom:

"The preservation of our free system of life is the aim of our defense efforts which are based on the idea that we can produce more than Hitler can destroy without losing our economic gains and our freedom."

Of course, this could not possibly mean that we could produce all that Hitler can destroy without losing the freedom of our economic system, its individual management or its profits, in confiscatory taxes and regimentation.

It could not possibly mean that when we contemplate mortgaging our future up to a $100,000,000,000, at the very minimum, we are not giving up the economic gains of wealth and freedom from taxation of an onerous nature that our forefathers have accumulated here over the centuries.

It does clearly mean that while searching with a fine sieve for any economic gains that supposedly will not be given up, the two that are obviously intended are those designed to appeal to working people—farmers and the like. But, even here, regarding the most important ones of these, (less work and a higher standard of living) the idea that we can escape giving these up in great quantities if our effort is to be "all-out," in fact as well as in slogans, is a cruel deception.

We are rapidly approaching a limit to total defense production with the facilities available. Therefore, if defense production is to continue to increase, civilian production, and therefore consumption will have to be curtailed. We say very glibly: "There can be no business as usual."

But if there be no business as usual for the big fellow—and there will be plenty of business for him—it is a certainty that the fellow for whom there will be no business at all is the little fellow.

His standards of living are as important to be preserved and his economic gains and freedom are as dear to him as those of any other class or as to all people. There is no other way of increasing military production except by using resources that are presently engaged in maintaining our high standards of living, economic gains and freedom.

There will soon be a tremendous "priorities unemployment." It will hit every class of the population. There will soon be higher taxes for every class. There is already such shortage among certain skills of labor that it is impossible—if we are to have "all-out", production,—not to work longer hours and to restrict the indiscriminate right to strike in jurisdictional disputes and controversies that have nothing whatever to do with the employer-employe relations.

How can one class of our leaders ask all people to change their whole method of life, giving up buying up automobiles, refrigerators, stop building houses and hence, in future, live in much more restricted, if not more degraded conditions, while another class of leadership is telling them: "No loss of economic freedom?"

Settlement of Rail Dispute Enhances Chances of Moderate Form.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Settlement of the threatened railroad strike strengthened the position today of house members advocating a moderate form of legislation to curb strikes in defense industries.

Although proponents of more drastic measures held certain parliamentary advantages as the second day of the debate opened on the thorny problem, informed legislators expressed belief that elimination of the railroad tie-up threat would enhance the chances of the bill recommended by the house labor committee.

That measure would give statutory authority to a new national mediation board, require a 60-day cooling-off period before strikes could be called and, in event of failure of all other measures, authorize government seizure of productive facilities involved.

Under the procedure governing the debate, the house also would have a choice of two other proposals One recommended by the house naval committee would require a cooling-off period and give legal status to the mediation board but also would authorize compulsory arbitration of strikes if other measures failed—procedure vigorously opposed by spokesmen for both organized labor and industry.

A third proposal, sponsored by Rep. Smith (D., Va.) differed from the others in that it would freeze the existing union status in defense industries—as to the closed shop issue—for the duration of the emergency, forbid jurisdictional and sympathy strikes and mass picketing It also would require a majority vote by the workers in secret balloting before strikes would be permissible.

Debate on the explosive issue opened late yesterday with Smith advocating enactment of his bill so as to insure that "your defense program will not be used for organizational purposes by labor unions."

Up and Down the Street

Described by state highway patrolmen as driving a "portable tire flattener," Harold Columber, Kenton, was arrested yesterday afternoon on U. S. Route 30-S, about three miles west of the city. Columber was driving a truck loaded with steel filings and shavings which kept dropping onto the road, cutting up the tires of motorists driving behind him, according to patrolmen. Arraigned before Acting Judge H. H. Schettler, Columber pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a vehicle with its load not securely fastened and was fined $10 and costs

Although the country's national defense program is aimed to arm this country against its enemies, at least five members of the Mansfield police department have the same program to thank for being without any weapons. Although Police Chief Meade K. Bates ordered service revolvers for the five new traffic squad members late in July, he has not received them as yet. The Colt Firearms company continually postponed delivery of the order. Now, Bates had abandoned hope and is seeking the guns through a cooperative police chief association which works with the FBI. In the meantime, the traffic officers are using guns borrowed from regular patrolmen.

Richland county appeared today on a map prepared by the United States bureau of census designating principal industrial counties in the nation. Widely circulated, the map is based on the wage earners engaged in manufacturing in the various counties and classifies Richland county as having between 5,000 and 10,000 industrial workers.

13 OFFICIALS ARE ACCUSED IN COMPLAINT

Claim Company and Officers Schemed To Defraud Investors.

(By United Press)

DETROIT — A three-year-old complaint in federal district court today resulted in indictment of the Fidelity Investment association, a $600,000,000 assurance company, and 13 individuals on charges of violating the securities and exchange act.

The indictment resulted from a complaint filed in the court Dec. 14, 1938, accusing the firm and its officers of a scheme to defraud investors of $275,500,000.

The indictment was handed up to Federal Judge Frank A. Picard late last night by a grand jury which worked against time in the closing hours to prevent the statute of limitations from eliminating certain use of the mails on which much of the case is based. The limitation would have been in effect on any action taken after Dec. 1.

Named with the Fidelity company in the indictment were four subsidiaries, all of Wheeling, W. Va., where the parent institution maintains its home office, and men prominent in the business and political life of the nation.

Among the individuals were:

Carm A. Thompson, Cleveland, presidential secretary in the administration of the late William H. Taft and former treasurer of the United States. He was listed as company president.

Howard Sutherland, former United States senator from West Virginia. He was listed as a director.

John Marshall, Washington, D. C., attorney, former assistant United States attorney general. He was listed as chairman of the board of directors.

The SEC charged that the company mis-stated or omitted material facts in its prospectus statements, created subsidiary corporations to conceal from the public the fact that it was making investments in real estate securities which it carried on its books at excess values, and making misleading statements claiming that it never borrowed from an outside source to meet its obligations.

At the time the original complaint was filed the SEC charged that the association had issued and sold to the general public approximately 200,000 contract certificates for a total face value of about $600,000,000. The SEC said that on June 30, 1938, there were outstanding 112,543 of these certificates for a total face value of $276,223,450.

At that time Thompson denied all of the charges of fraud. He agreed with some of the specific points in the SEC complaint but denied "inferences, suspicions and allegations of improper motives."

BROADWAY

Speaking For Myself.

NOW that the newsprint tizzy caused by the debut of the Cafe Society Register and the appearance of this year's edition of the Social Register has subsided, the only major volume of name listings that New Yorkers can look forward to is the Manhattan Telephone Directory. I'd like to see this thick and useful tome appear in the same atmosphere of alcoholic chic that characterizes the debut of the other two works.

Kilgallen

For example, the papers might print pictures of Mrs. Cassidy, who made the book this time, and of Mrs. Doakes, who didn't. Of Mrs. Beetpuss, who drew a Butterfield-8 number, and of Miss Drisselthwaite, who slipped from a Regent-7 to a Schuyler-4.

There would be an elaborate cocktail party at Fefe's Monte Carlo, much commentary by the society reporters, and interviews with the lucky people who are mentioned in Mr. Bell's handbook.

The press could painstakingly note that the book is somewhat larger this year, but still conservative in format. Table talk at all the boites would be concerned with the new roster, and those citizens with more than one phone listing to their credit would be entitled to ringside tables at all the classier establishments.

Lucius might be persuaded to pen a pettish column complaining about the breakdown of standards that some of the inclusions imply, and all the hostesses would rush to get the folk with low phone numbers for their dinner parties.

Why not?

One of the things that makes Gotham unique among cities is the pace of its pedestrian traffic. This is probably the only city in the world where you can block traffic just by sauntering along at a leisurely stride, the way everybody walks in Cincinnati, Bridgeport and Denver.

I paused to watch this phenomenon the other day, and practically all the walkers were hurrying along as if their homes would be destroyed in a fire if they didn't get there in two minutes flat.

Now is the time of the year when (as I plunk a couple of hundred Christmas card envelopes into the mailbox) my thoughts turn to the everlovin' postman, whose quiet plodding shadow looms bigger and bigger on the national horizon as Christmas draws near. When you live on the 17th floor you never see your postman; but I like to think mine is named John and has two children and is getting a little gray and knows my handwriting, so that when my Christmas cards come tumbling out of the box he says: "Well, Miss Killgallen got HERS off early!" . . . I wish the Hartmans would do a slapstick satire on Salvador Dali's ventures into terpsichore. That would be a ballet-laugh! . . . Hollywood-Struck Girl Promises Not To Run Away Again

CINCINNATI —(INS)— Hollywood-struck Mary Palumbo, 16, was back home today, no nearer stardom in the movies, but richer in experience.

A four-day runaway trip by airplane to see Linda Darnell in Hollywood ended when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Palumbo, had Cincinnati police get in touch with Hollywood police who sent her home.

Mary declared she wouldn't run away again, but beyond that she refused to talk. She bought her airplane ticket with $135 taken from her brother's dresser drawer.

PLAYERS OPEN SEASON TONIGHT

Curtain Time 8:30 For Play, 'Man Who Came To Dinner'; Crowd Expected.

After weeks of rehearsal, a big cast of Mansfield Community Players will inaugurate their 1941-42 season tonight with the comedy, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," which will be presented in the John Simpson Junior high school auditorium.

The curtain goes up at 8.30 p. m. and late arrivals won't be admitted until after the first act.

Only a few tickets for the Players' first presentation remain unsold, indicating a near-capacity crowd for the opener.

The Community Players, directed again this year by Mrs. E. K. Bacon, will start their 16th year with tonight's play. A number of newcomers will be in the cast this season and the dramatics group is planning its biggest year.

All of the plays on the season's program have been Broadway hits and two of them, "Arsenic and Old Lace," and "Ladies In Retirement," are still playing to big crowds in New York

In the lead role Tuesday night will be Ernest J. Wesson who, according to advance notices, is certain to become a favorite with Mansfield playgoers Other members of the cast will include Mrs. H. H. Schettler, Alvin Krieg, Jo Ann Cattell, William Zimmerman, Ann Menrath, Dorothy Bacon, Virginia Jenkins, Larry Mellert, Neal Thomas Lois Weingartner, George Tuttle, Sylvia Frankel, William Flinn, Don Denman, Dorothea Grimes and Gerald Van Arnum.

ARMY OFFICER SAVED BY CHUTE

Leaps to Safety When His Plane Encounters Trouble.

DAYTON—(INS)—Lieut. Robert Edwards, 27, an army air corps officer on detached duty, was safe at Patterson Field today after making a parachute jump of 3,000 feet when his plane failed 70 miles south of Cincinnati.

Edwards was on his way to Dayton from Macon, Ga., with a light bomber, which caught fire after it crashed. He and other officers refused to explain cause of the plane's failure. The jump was the second Edwards had made.

NEW RECORD

Movement Of Ore On Lake Erie At All-Time High for November.

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)—Movement of iron ore on the Great Lakes last month totaled 7,660,987 tons, setting a new all-time November tonnage record. The previous high November figure was 7,333,828 in 1917.

Tonnage for the season to date is 79,281,279, also a new record, the Lake Superior Iron Ore association reported.

KILLED IN CRASH

ASHLEY —(U.P.)— A speeding New York Central passenger train struck an automobile loaded with 700 baby chicks on a crossing here, last night, killing Waldo McNamee, 31, Delaware, the driver. The impact knocked the car 100 feet and scattered the chickens.

TELLS WOMEN COUNTY OPERATES WITHOUT DEBT FOR FIRST TIME

Richland county government, for the first time in history, is now living within its income, free of debt, Norman L. Wolfe, Richland county auditor, told members of the League of Women Voters in an address on "County Taxes" at the Woman's club yesterday.

Wolfe shared the program with City Auditor Paul Kelley, who explained the workings of his office, and Miss Bertha Gregory, Y.W.C.A. executive secretary. Miss Gregory reviewed a booklet, "Federal Taxes in 1942 and After," which showed the necessity of financing the defense programs and the various methods to be used in raising the money.

The county auditor pointed out the duties of his office which include the assessing of all real estate and personal taxes, making up the tax rate, and allocating the funds to the seven villages, 18 townships, county board of health and two library associations in the county.

Property tax is the main source of revenue, Wolfe explained, while other money is obtained from fees assessed for services in county offices and from the sales tax. He quoted figures showing the expenditures of the auditor's offices which annually amount to nearly three-quarters of a million dollars.

Wolfe mentioned that some laws still governing county government are more than 100 years old and suggested that a state commission be appointed to study these old laws and bring them up to present needs.

Normal activities of the city of Mansfield cost between $1,000,000 and $1,100,000 annually, City Auditor Paul Kelley informed the League. He cited the sales tax, liquor taxes and various kinds of permits as sources of revenue and said that collected revenues are allocated for specific purposes.

Contrasting the city's indebtedness of 1923 with 1941 the city auditor said that July 1, 1923 the indebtedness amounted to $1,682,624 while at the close of the current year this figure will have been reduced to $412,300.

Mrs. T. J. McDermott, League president, presided at the luncheon, and the speakers were introduced by Mrs. A. M. Colby, chairman of Government and Its Operation committee.

SETS UP HOURS

Merchants' Group Suggests Yule Shopping Schedule.

A return to evening shopping hours for the three Saturday nights preceding Christmas has been recommended by the Retail Merchants association board of trustees to members of the association.

The recommendation sets 9 p. m. as the closing time for the Saturday nights of Dec. 6, Dec. 13, and Dec. 30, and also calls for evening shopping hours the week before Christmas beginning Thursday, Dec. 18.

Stores open evenings the last week before Christmas will be asked to comply with the 9 p. m. closing with the exception of Christmas eve, Dec. 24, when stores will close at 6 p. m.

These hours are recommended by the association trustees for the convenience of holiday shoppers and after Christmas it recommends the return to the usual Saturday night closing hour of 6 p. m. beginning Dec. 27.

Bob Winbigler Picked on United Press All-Ohio Squad

Sport Podge by Rex Hess

Paul Brown, principal speaker for the News-Journal's seventh annual football dinner honoring Mansfield high Tyger gridders Jan. 5, is wowing 'em in the Ohio alumni banquet league, a tougher league by far than the Big Ten pigskin circuit, as some Ohio State coaches have learned in the past.

Brown went over big with Ashland Rotarians and their guests last Tuesday noon, made an even bigger hit with the critical Cleveland alumni that night, and later in the week at Springfield he was greeted by the biggest and most enthusiastic crowd of alumni ever to welcome a successful Ohio State coach to that city.

They call him the Miracle Man of Massillon, a euphonious bit of alliteration, and an easy tag to pin on him, even though it does put him on a spot which could very easily be marked "X."

But aside from his coaching ability and knowledge of the game, Paul Brown owns a touch of that magic which made Knute Rockne great—the ability to keep his boys in there pitching for him, not for just a game, or a week, but all season long.

* * *

What was it one Ohio State star was quoted anonymously as saying last Spring? "Certainly I've quit smoking and drinking. I'd hate to be the first glaring example to be kicked off this team for not training. This guy means business."

* * *

I was up in the Ohio State dressing room after that wild game that ended spring practice. And I couldn't help overhearing some interesting bits of conversation among the "lean and hungry" athletes.

Big Jim Daniell walked by, still wearing a bit of excess girth. "He's taken off a lot of weight," remarked one player. "but he'll never get down to the weight Brown wants him playing at. I doubt if he plays much next fall."

And from another player: "Did you see the way we were going through Fritz Howard today? He was the weakest spot in the line. He won't make the team next fall.

* * *

So what happened?

Daniell and Howard were the outstanding stars of the Ohio State line this fall. Howard was picked by Ted Husing on his radio all-American, and Daniel has been named on more than one Big Ten selection.

They got in there and pitched for Brown.

Dr. Walter Duffee, Ohio State trainer under four Buckeye coaches, told Lima Sports Editor Bill Snypp last week there had never been a more dramatic dressing room moment for him than the day Brown fired Massillon's Charley Anderson from the squad for not keeping strict training. Here's Duffee's story:

"I was the only one in the room when Brown started his pre-practice talk to the squad. He began by saying: 'I am very unhappy. I thought we agreed that we could all have fun and play football, too. Forty-one of us agreed early in the fall that we would do our utmost for each other. Well, now it seems there are only 40 and Charles Anderson, who, henceforth is no longer a member of the Ohio State squad.'

"Brown went right on then with his talk about the day's practice and as soon as it was over asked me to take a dictated statement for the press. It was very brief, but he refused to elaborate. The Anderson incident was closed."

Gophers Take AP Top Spot

Press Association Poll Ranks Minnesota First.

By BILL BONI

NEW YORK—(AP)—To the Minnesota football team and to Sports Editor Ray Kelly of the New York Times go top honors today in the final Associated Press football ranking poll of the regular 1941 season.

The Golden Gophers, as had appeared likely since the second week in November, finished in first place to retain the No. 1 position accorded them a year ago, just as they retained the Western conference championship they won in 1940. Of the 96 sports experts throughout the country who took part in this week's balloting, 84 plunked for Minnesota and one other split his vote between the Gophers and Duke.

* * *

As a result the Gophers, with nine second-place votes, another for third and one for fourth, polled a total of 945½ points out of a perfect 960. Duke's Blue Devils, Rose Bowl bound to meet Oregon State, got 9½ for first and 725½ points, and Duquesne, only other big-time unbeaten and untied team in the land, 309⅓ points for eighth.

Points were awarded on a basis of 10 for first, nine for second, eight for third, etc.

In the two biggest bowl games, the voters make Duke a heavy favorite over Oregon State, given only enough points for 12th place, while rating the Fordham-Missouri Sugar Bowl clash virtually a toss-up. Fordham got 329¾ points in sixth place, Missouri 328 in a seventh. Notre Dame, Texas and Michigan, in third, fourth and fifth, and Texas A. and M. and Navy, in ninth and tenth, completed the first 10.

Kelly, in his ballot, came closest to the week's ranking. He named the first three teams in order, then followed with Missouri, Fordham, Texas, Texas A. and M., Duquesne, Navy and Michigan.

* * *

Collier Parris of the Lubbock (Tex.) Avalanche-Journal made the best start, listing the first four in order but hitting only six of the correct 10. Thirteen writers had the first two in order and nine of the 10, including Herb Barker, Orlo Robertson, Hugh Fullerton, jr., Harold Claassen and Bill Bonn, Associated Press.

Cleveland Boxers Win

Christoforidis Takes Garcia In Lead Bout.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Local beak-busters did very well for themselves at the News' annual Christmas Fund Boxing show.

Anton Christoforidis, 163, proved his superiority over Ceferino Garcia, 158, former middleweight champion, by taking eight of ten rounds from the Los Angeles Filipino. He opened a cut over Garcia's eye in the fourth round and kept pegging away at the injury.

A 19-years-old Clevelander, Joe Maxim, former middleweight champion in the amateur ranks, proved to have too heavy a fist for Clarence (Red) Burman, the Baltimore veteran. Maxim, weighing 178, tormented the 186-pound Burman with a constant barrage of lefts to the face, and took eight of their ten rounds.

* * *

The other ten-round match went to Fritzie Zivic, the Pittsburgher who used to hold the welterweight crown. He battered young Harry Weekly into a technical knockout at 2:57 of the ninth. Zivic's experience was too much for Weekly, an Alliance puncher who had been winning bouts in New Orleans. Zivic, at 143, topped Weekly by a pound.

Joey Pirrone, 134, of Cleveland, fought six rounds to a decision over Marcellina Borrado, 133, of Mexico City.

Cleveland's Johnny Lawer, 152, in his first start as a pro, registered a technical K. O over Don Blatchford 154, of Lorain. It came 51 seconds after the start of the third round, in a contest scheduled for four. John Abbott, 140, also of Cleveland, got the nod in four rounds over Henry Claypool, 142, of Akron.

The customers numbered 12,653.

FORMER BUCYRUS CAGERS MEET IN COLLEGE GAME

BUCYRUS — Two former Bucyrus High school basketball squad mates will meet on the basketball floor again but on opposite teams when Oberlin college goes to Pennsylvania to meet Washington and Jefferson college, December 13.

John Carlisle, high scoring forward on the Oberlin five and Al Reece, forward on the W. and J. team were teammates for Bucyrus in 1936 and 1937 under Coach Howard Nussbaum. Reece was graduated in 1937 and Carlisle in 1938.

Thull Chalks Up New Record

Rolls 691 For Season Mark In Club League.

Joe Thull of American Legion set a new seasons' record for total pins in a Club league match last night when he chalked up 691 on games of 212-258-221 at Colony alleys.

* * *

The new mark surpassed the previous high total of 266 set by Frick, but the 258 game, while high for the night, was below Frick's record 266.

Thull's hot streak, coupled with a 613 by Smith, gave the Legion high total of 2,884 for the night, a new league record for the season, and high game of 1007 Mansfield Savings Bank held the former match record of 2862, and retains the game record of 1011.

Legion won all three games from Lumbermens Insurance, but failed to improve its one-game first place margin over Mansfield Savings which scored a 3-0 victory over Doherty Fraternity.

Johnny Leppo rolled a 639 total last night, and Sherm Wentz 611.

Bowl Teams Top Records

Duke Has Best Won, Lost Rating Among Majors.

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK —(AP)— The story why Duke, Fordham and the Texas Aggies have dominated the bowl picture the last two years is reflected in their football records for the last half decade.

Duke, which made an unsuccessful visit to the Rose bowl in January, 1939, and has been invited back again to meet Oregon State next month, tops the country's major colleges in won and lost records over this stretch with a percentage of .370. The Blue Devils have won 40 games while dropping only six and tying one in that period.

Minnesato, unbeaten since 1939 but out of the bowl picture because of a Big Ten ruling, is ninth in the last with 8 defeats, one tie and 31 triumphs—the last 17 in a row.

Fordham, loser to the Texas Aggies in the Cotton bowl last New Years day and Missouri's opponent in the Sugar bowl this coming Jan. 1, is third with a record of .842, compiled by winning, 32, losing six and tying three. The Aggies, headed back to the Cotton bowl for the second straight year, stand fifth with a percentage of .822.

Thanks to their unbeaten record in nine games, the Blue Devils vaulted over Tennessee's Vols, who despite an indifferent year for them with a record of eight and two, closed out the five-year period with a mark of .865, good for runner-up honors. Notre Dame, on the upgrade under the direction of Frank Leahy, jumped from eighth with a percentage of .791, to fourth with .833 on the strength of eight victories and a tie in nine games. Santa Clara, winning only six of its nine contests, dropped from second to sixth.

Although the Vols fell off in scoring ability they held to first place in points scored for the period with 1,208 tallies as compared to 1,042 for Duke.

Defensively, the Vols also top the field having had only 196 points scored against them though Duke's opponents collected only three more in one less game.

With the exception of Alabama, the Texas Aggies' Cotton bowl opponent, the other bowl elevens are far down the list despite fine 1941 records. The Crimson Tide has a won and lost record of .800 and a scoring record of 872 points for 264 against. Missouri's record shows a .764 percentage for the period and Oregon State .659. Georgia, nominated for the Orange bowl, has won only 29 of its 52 games for a .617 record.

Ohio State, with 26 games won, 12 lost and two tied, stands 27th from the top of the list of major teams. It has scored 699 points in the five years against 375 runs up by its opposition. Xavier is listed 31st on 50 victories, 15 losses, three ties, 713 points scored and 340 points scored by its opposition.

GREENBERG RELEASE FROM ARMY EXPECTED

FORT CUSTER, Mich.—(U.P.)—Fifth division army headquarters has announced that Sgt. Hank Greenberg, the Detroit Tigers' $50,000-a-year outfielder, would be released from the army Friday, Dec. 5.

Greenberg's release is made possible under the law which provides for release of selectees having reached their 28th birthday anniversary. Greenberg will be 31 Jan. 1.

Hedges Nips Prospect

Grade School Cage Loop Opens Play Yesterday.

Hedges elementary school squeezed by Prospect school yesterday afternoon in the first round of grade school league play in the Hedges gymnasium, 26-24.

Other winners were Western over West Fifth, Bowman over Woodland, Bushnell over Carpenter and Newman over Brinkerhoff.

With the score tied at 22 all at the close of the regular time, Hedges tanked two field goals in the extra period to win. Robbins was high scorer for Hedges with 10 points.

* * *

Gandert sunk two field goals to score two thirds of the points necessary for Western to down West Fifth, 6-4, on the John Simpson floor.

Led by Reynolds with 12 points, Bowman came from behind to nip Woodland on the Johnny Appleseed court.

* * *

Novak with 12 points led Bushnell to a 12 to 7 victory over Carpenter in another game played on the Appleseed court.

* * *

On the John Simpson court, Pritchard tanked four field goals to lead his Newman school team to a 13-6 victory over Brinkerhoff.

Romano, Dietzel and Doolittle Honored

Wire Service Sport Editor Sees Dearth of Good Line Material

THE UNITED PRESS today picked an All-Ohio high school football squad, instead of team, and on the first squad is Bob Winbigler, husky Mansfield end, whose brilliant punting was largely responsible for keeping the Tygers in the ball game in the 6 to 6 tie with Massillon.

Given honorable mention are Joe Romano, end, Paul Dietzel, center, and Bill Doolittle, quarterback of the Tygers.

There appears to be little rhyme or reason back of the U. P. squad idea. On the first squad are five ends, four tackles, two guards, one center, and eight backs. The three boys in the center of the line apparently are expected to be iron men.

However, Jim Emerson, sports editor of the United Press, explains it this way:

"The shortage of good linemen, tackle to tackle, seemed to be statewide. A well-informed correspondent in Stark county, the center of strength in Ohio schoolboy football, with such teams as Massillon, Canton McKinley, Canton Lehman and Alliance, said: 'We haven't a great linesman in the county.'"

Just how much is expected of a high school lineman before he is considered great is not made clear. But there were some very good linemen in Stark county, including Hill, Weisgarber, Paulik and Fuchs of Massillon, and Cook of Canton McKinley. It's possible the correspondent erred. And in Richland county there was Duke Weber, who made the AP all-Ohio.

No one in Mansfield will complain about the selection of Winbigler at end on the first squad. A brilliant punter, a glue-fisted pass receiver, and a heady, dependable wingman on defense, Winbigler, because of his size, 190 pounds on six feet of frame, is regarded by many as the best college grid prospect on the Tyger squad.

Here is the United Press first squad:

Ends—Jim Alkire of Washington C. H.; Elmer Bean of Springfield; Joe De Mando of Massillon; Ken Pitzer of Xenia O. S. S. O., and Bob Winbigler of Mansfield.

Tackles—Bill Crabtree of Columbus East; Lou Groza of Martins Ferry; Jim Lewis of Bowling Green; Ed Shepler of Toledo Libbey.

Do Your Christmas Mailing EARLY!

It Will Help Us To Give YOU The Efficient and Satisfactory Service That Is The Aim of Each Postal Employee

Addressing

Address all matter plainly and completely in ink, giving street address, or box or rural route number, whenever possible. Place sender's return card in upper left hand corner of address side. Tags should not be used unless necessary, in which case a copy of the address and return card should be placed inside the parcel, for identification if tag is lost.

Packing and Wrapping

Pack articles carefully, in strong, durable containers, wrap securely . . . but do not seal them except when bearing a printed label reading: "Contents, merchandise—Postmaster: This parcel may be opened for postal inspection if necessary," together with name and address of sender, as sealed parcels not so labeled are subject to the letter rate.

All Parcels Containing Perishables Should Be Plainly Marked "PERISHABLE"

To The Public:

Once again the Christmas season is at hand, with postal facilities taxed to the utmost, in handling the unusually large mail and parcel post shipments. So, with a view to rendering the best possible service to the people of this community, this message is brought to you through the courtesy of The Mansfield News-Journal.

The instructions printed on this page will aid us immeasurably in the prompt and accurate handling of your mail. Your co-operation will enable us to give you the speedy, efficient and completely satisfactory service that is the earnest desire of each and every one of us.

We wish to express our appreciation for both your whole-hearted co-operation and your business during the past year . . . and extend to all best wishes for a happy holiday season.

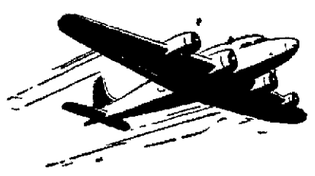
USE AIR MAIL

When Hours Count



When time is a vital factor, air mail offers the nation's fastest mail service, and at extremely low rates. Air mail is received first, opened first, answered first . . . tomorrow's mail today. Rate is 6 cents for each ounce sent anywhere in the United States.

Note: Rates for air mail in outlying possessions of the U. S. are somewhat higher.

Air Mail Special Delivery

The speed of air mail service is still further accelerated by special delivery, insuring immediate delivery at office of arrival. The special delivery rate is 10 cents additional to regular air mail letter rate.

SPECIAL DELIVERY SERVICE

The prepayment of the following fees on first, second, third, or fourth class mail entitles it to the most expeditious handling and transportation practicable, and also entitles it to special delivery, immediately, at the office of address. This in addition to regular postage.

	First Class Cents	Second, Third, Fourth Class Cents
Up to 2 Pounds	10	15
Over 2 Pounds, Up to 10	20	25
Over 10 Pounds	25	35

POSTAL INSURANCE

Valuable parcels should be insured. The fees are: For parcel value not over $5.00, 5 cents; over $5.00, but not over $25.00, 10 cents; over $25.00 but not over $50.00, 15 cents; over $50.00 but not over $100.00, 25 cents; over $100.00 but not over $150.00, 30 cents; over $150.00 but not over $200.00, 35 cents. Return receipts 3 cents extra. All in addition to the regular postage.

The Observance of These Things Will Aid Us Materially In Serving You During the Christmas Rush

Anticipate, as far as possible, your regular stamp requirements for the Christmas season, and purchase them in advance, to avoid the large crowds.

Any late mailing should be sent special delivery, to provide the promptest possible arrival at its destination.

Separate your "City" and "Outgoing" mail and place in proper slots provided at postoffice. When bundles of either "City" or "Outgoing" mail are brought to postoffice, it will help us if they are handed through window in bundles, rather than placed through slots a few at a time. A postal employee will be stationed at mailing slots during the Christmas season.

Residents whose street numbers have been changed are requested to promptly notify all friends and correspondents of their new numbers. This will facilitate and expediate distribution and delivery of mail . . . especially during the holiday rush when "extra" employes are working.

MORE CURRENCY IN CIRCULATION

Federal Reserve District Bill and Check Totals Well Over Last Year.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — Circulation of currency in the Federal Reserve bank's fourth district for the four weeks ended Nov. 19 rose $200,000,000 over a year ago as payrolls and purchases continued to expand, the bank's monthly business review said today.

For the five week period ended the same date, commercial and individual checks cleared through banks in 26 cities totaled $4,102,616,000, a 32 per cent increase over the corresponding period in 1940.

The fourth district includes all Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, eastern Kentucky and the West Virginia panhandle.

Despite a 22 per cent increase in Ohio's industrial employment and a 40 per cent increase in payrolls over a year ago, savings deposits of 40 district banks were only 1.9 per cent larger as of Oct. 31 than on the same date last year. However, more than $120,000,000 worth of defense savings bonds have been purchased in the district since last May 1.

The slowing down in savings deposits at banks was attributed mainly to reduced interest rates.

"In some cases no interest is being paid on small accounts and very large balances, with varying rates on intermediate accounts," the Review said. "At two large banks the average rate paid the first half of this year was 0.8 per cent."

Fourth district living costs rose again in October for the 11th consecutive month, with principal advances in clothing, house furnishings and sundries. Prices were reported up about 8 per cent compared with a year ago.

PLANS PARTY

SHOWS SLUMP IN AUTO SALES

Courthouse Records Disclose Decline Due To Priorities, Credit Regulations.

Continuing the decline started in August, Richland county's new automobile sales dropped to 103 in November, lowest mark in more than two years, Miss Ruth Them, deputy county motor registrar, said today.

Defense priorities and the new federal requirement for one-third of the purchase price down were blamed for the slump in new car business.

While county dealers were selling fewer new automobiles last month, the new truck sales showed a slight increase. Twenty were sold as compared with 18 in October and 15 in September.

Both auto and truck sales were far below figures for last November when Richland countians bought 278 new automobiles and 40 trucks.

Car sales reached an all-time high in the county last March at 491. They remained at record marks until August. That month sales dropped more than 75 per cent.

$300 SHORT

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus Red Cross roll call was still $300 short of the goal of $1,200 today, Chairman Charles Herscler reported after making a check of Bucyrus banks where enrollments are collected.

About 40 establishments in the city have reported 100 per cent enrollments.

County Dairymen To Attend Ohio Meeting at Tiffin

A number of Richland county dairymen are expected to go to Tiffin Thursday and Friday to attend the annual convention of Ohio Dairymen.

The Thursday program will open at 1 p. m. in the Columbian high school auditorium. Speakers will be W. E. Krauss of the Ohio Experiment station; H. B. Steele, secretary of the Dairymen's Co-operative Sales association at Pittsburgh, and W. E. Peterson of the University of Minnesota.

There will be a dinner Thursday night in Trinity Reformed church and morning and afternoon sessions Friday in the same church. Directors of the dairymen's association will be elected Friday morning.

Tickets will be available until Wednesday noon at County Agent George B. Ganyard's office in the courthouse.

Tax Books Open Week, $70,000 In Accounts Paid

With four more weeks to pay personal property taxes without penalty, nearly $100,000 had been collected today by County Treasurer Charles C. Payne. The tax books have been open only a week.

Heavy early payments have left slightly more than $70,000 to be collected before the books close Dec. 30, and Payne believes most of it will be paid on time.

The personal tax collection now under way is the last of the year in the county. Auditor Norman L. Wolfe and his staff are working on the real estate tax books for the 1942 collection, but the treasurer said real estate payments will not be received until about Feb. 1.

Wolfe said he hoped to have the books ready a little earlier than last year when the collection started in February.

THEATERS

Family Picture.

Dedicated to one of humanity's unsung heroes, the country minister, "One Foot In Heaven," the heart-warming vehicle showing at the Ohio, has Fredric March for its star. March plays the young minister who takes his bride to an Iowa village to assume his first charge. The parsonage is dingy but the people are kindly and this rule follows through a succession of charges. The all-week job of sharing the joys and sorrows of his flock and the task of raising a family on a meager salary are shared by his wife who engineers many of his best decisions. Martha Scott plays the wife and the cast includes Frankie Thomas, Beulah Bondi and Moroni Olsen.

Gay Comedy.

A hatcheck girl poses as a socialite to please a wealthy young man in somewhat of a spot with his millionaire father and then decides to continue the pose in "It Started With Eve," showing at the Madison. Deanna Durbin plays the girl, Robert Cummings, the scion of wealth, and Charles Laughton, the millionaire father. As well as being a hatcheck girl, Miss Durbin plays the part of a young woman with musical aspirations and she sings five numbers, most of them classical or semi-classical. Zane Grey's "Last of the Duanes," is the second attraction.

Technicolor Film.

"Aloma of the South Seas," Technicolor film, showing at the Ritz, stars Dorothy Lamour and Jon Hall, Lynne Overman and Donna Drake complete the cast. Selected short subjects supplement the bill.

Dramatic Attraction.

"I'll Sell My Life," with Stanley Fields and Joan Woodbury is showing at the Majestic with Ginger Rogers in "Tom, Dick and Harry," as the co-attraction. George Murphy, Alan Marshal and Burgess Meredith are featured in the second picture.

Broadway Story.

Damon Runyon's fast-moving story, "Tight Shoes," is playing at the Park with Broderick Crawford, John Howard, Binnie Barnes and Leo Carrillo in the cast. Crawford plays one of Runyon's typical Broadway characters as a guy who insists on wearing tight shoes and betting his all on the horses. His last hunch on the winner doesn't prove out and he is placed in the embarrassing position of having no money. "The Devil Pays Off," the second picture dealing with international intrigue features Margaret Tallichet and William Wright.

"5 CIGARETTES A DAY PAY FOR A $100 LOAN!"

★ Smoke 5 less cigarettes a day and you can easily pay for a $100.00 Colonial Plan loan! That's how economically you can fill the coal bin, pay old bills, repair the car, etc.

Actually, you pay less than 4c a day for a $100.00 loan—six to eighteen pay plans—because charge is reduced ½ each month for prompt payment.

Cut down on your cigarettes a little and enjoy the benefits of extra cash!

COLONIAL OFFERS YOU:

1. A ½ discount of a loan cost each month for prompt payment!
2. Savings of $10.98 on a $100 loan—eighteen pay plan!
3. Payment as low as $6.66 monthly, cost included, on above loan!
4. A breathing spell of six weeks before your first payment is due! (Interest from date.)
5. Loans from $25 to $1,000.00 on your signature or security!

● More than 136,000 families use and recommend Colonial Plan loan service. You can be sure of satisfaction, too. Come in, phone, or write for the cash you need.

NEED $100? HERE'S WHAT TO DO

Tell us how much you need, $20 to $500; how much you can repay monthly; and answer a few simple questions.

Loans made three ways: (1) on signature, (2) on car, (3) on furniture. No endorsers. Friends or relatives are not told. Fair treatment in case of sickness or unemployment. Payments include charges of 2% monthly on balances of $300 or less and ½% monthly on any remainder—the same rate to everyone. Nothing else to pay. To apply—phone, write or visit office. Money ready next day—or sooner if necessary.

Rails Lead Stock Recovery After Settlement of Wage Dispute.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Rails, apparently stimulated by settlement of the wage dispute and the calling off of a nation-wide strike, led the stock market today on a moderate recovery shift.

Improvement was registered for N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Great Northern, Southern railway, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Kennecott and Western Union.

Market analysts, studying the federal reserve round-up for the week ended Nov. 26, began to wonder if the lengthy industrial swing might not be flattening out somewhat.

The reserve summary disclosed last week's department store sales in New York City and Brooklyn topped the corresponding period a year ago by 3 per cent. In the preceding week the year-to-year increase amounted to 1 per cent while for the country as a whole the upturn was 11 per cent.

CHURCHILL ASKS GREATER EFFORT

Proposes To Shift Age Limits For Conscription Down To 18, Up To 50.

tion will bring more than 3,000,000 more men and women under review for armed service with the British forces.

Churchill coupled his call for increased manpower and womanpower with the warning that "at anytime Hitler may recognize his defeat by the Russian armies to recover his disaster visit us with all his fury.

"We are all ready for him. We shall receive him when he comes, by day or night, by far greater forces and with every modern improvement, but we must always be ready.

"Very definite curtailments of the amenities we have hitherto been able to preserve will be demanded," he said.

He said Britain would have to call on her people for "a further degree of sacrifice and exertion, although 1941 has seen the major problems of creating war production capacity and manufacturing equipment largely solved or on the high road to solution."

The crisis of manpower and womanpower of 1942 was expected, he declared, because "great supply plants have been largely constructed."

"They are finished. They must be fully staffed."

"We must prepare for the expansion of our force in 1942 and for a far greater expansion in 1943," he added.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Attend Meeting—Two members of the county auditor's office, Mrs. Mildred Brady and Arthur Beck, and Miss Hildred Fackler of the clerk of courts office, were in Columbus today for the annual state meeting of county auditors.

To Further Plans — Plans for the entertainment of recently naturalized citizens will be furthered at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce education committee Wednesday at 5 p. m. in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. W. J. Russell is committee chairman.

Arrest Youths—Two Mansfield youths have been taken into custody by Mansfield police for investigation. The youths, one 14 years old and the other 15, were discovered loitering about the parking lot of the Dominion Electrical Manufacturing company where several thefts of articles from cars has been reported.

Returned to City—Albert Bowser, 32, was returned to Mansfield from Elyria Monday by Sheriff Frank Robinson to answer to contempt of court charge in a non-support case order. Bowser, who gave his address at 503 East Broad street, Elyria, was to be heard by Judge C. H. Huston today.

Meets Tomorrow — The Richland County Fish and Game association will elect officers at its annual meeting at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at North Park pavilion, John C. Friday, president, announced today. Entertainment will include moving pictures. Refreshments will be served.

Pays Assault Fine—R. E. Zediker, 318 Wood street, was fined $10 and costs today in Municipal court by Acting Judge H. H. Schettler after being arraigned on an assault and battery charge. Zediker was arrested upon the complaint of Elmer Smith, Bahl avenue, who claimed that Zediker struck him in connection with an argument the two had on East Third street near the Westinghouse plant.

Continue Motorist's Case — The case of L. E. Burnham, 659 West Fourth street, who is charged with leaving the scene of an accident, was continued to Dec. 11 by Acting Judge H. H. Schettler today in Municipal court. Burnham was arrested after Thomas B. Titus, 317 East Third street rear, charged that he had failed to stop after a collision on U. S. route 42 north of the city yesterday.

CRACK BRITISH CRUISER SUNK

Sydney, Australian Navy Ace, Sinks Nazi Raider, Goes Down With All Hands.

built in 1934, fought its first engagement of the war on June 28, 1940, in the Mediterranean, sinking the Italian destroyer Espero and escaping unscathed to Alexandria despite a heavy bombing attack by Italian planes.

From then on, the Italian have reported the Sydney sunk eight times.

On July 29, 1940, the Sydney scored its most notable success, sinking the modern Italian cruiser Bartolomeo Colleoni and damaging another cruiser.

Before fighting its last battle with the Steiermarck, the Sydney had sailed more than 80,000 miles, fought at least 20 actions, fired 40,000 shells, survived 60 bombing attacks without the loss of a man, and had bombarded the Italian naval base at Rhodes in the Dodecanese islands.

(From Sydney, Australia, it was reported that subscriptions were already pouring in for a new cruiser of the same name. Some sources believed there was a "remote possibility" that the ship was still afloat, although no word had been received from it since the battle. No survivors have been found, it was said, although some of the Steiermarck's crew were rescued.)

TAKES OWN LIFE

Ashland Student at Miami U. Found Dead In Room.

ASHLAND — John C. Mowrey, 19, Ashland sophomore at Miami university, was found shot to death in his room in an Oxford rooming-house yesterday.

Coroner Garrett J. Boone said that death was due to a self-inflicted rifle bullet wound in the chest and added that an investigation indicated that Mowrey had been despondent because of a love affair and his scholastic work.

The body has been removed to the W. L. Mowrey funeral home in Ashland.

Survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Mowrey, a sister, Marilyn, at home; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Mowrey of Ashland and A. G. Volton of Pittsburgh, W. L. Mowrey is the youth's great-uncle.

Private funeral services will be held tomorrow at the home, 925 Center street, with Rev. H. E. Andrews of the Presbyterian church officiating. Burial will be in Ashland cemetery.
